Reorganization revealed

Hopes for new Sunset Center theater dashed

By DAVID LELAND

THE FRIENDS of Sunset Center reorganized this week, becoming The Friends of the Performing Arts, indirectly paving the way for a regional performing arts center on the peninsula.

The change in name appears to dash any hopes for the 1,200 to 1,500-seat theater proposed for Sunset Center, which has been the subject of fierce debate over the past months.

'Carmel will abdicate its post as being the cultural center of the peninsula. It's (reorganization) a major decision that will impact Carmel for 30 to 50 years in the future.'

—Lewis Heniford
Cultural commissioner

"I love Sunset Center, my heart will always be there," said Virginia Stanton, who has personally donated $250,000 toward the cause. "But I don't want to hurt the townspeople's feelings. They want to keep Carmel the way it is."

While earlier this year a feasibility study showed that 72 percent of Carmel residents favored the project, the Carmel Planning Commission found that the theater would be too big for Carmel and not in accordance with the city's general plan.

Many residents also feared that the theater would pull in too many outsiders, which would further impact the area's parking and traffic woes — even though the planning commission found an underground parking garage at Sunset Center to be in line with the general plan.

A citizen's advisory vote on the theater scheduled for the April 1988 general election has been cancelled, according to Jeanne Brehmer, city clerk.

Stanton added that current board president Bob Coffin, who is not interested in working on a regional project, will step down and be replaced by Gordon Smith.

Stanton said the group has not lost any of its optimism.

"We (the board) now feel that we should go for a bigger field and make it for the peninsula," she said. "It sounds very exciting."

While the news of reorganization and abandonment of the Sunset Center project may be music to some residents who mistakenly believed that the costs would have been carried by the city, others forecast that culture and arts in Carmel will suffer in the coming years.

A state-of-the-art facility being built on the peninsula is bound to pull away events such as the Carmel Bach Festival and the Monterey County Symphony from Carmel, according to Dr. Lewis Heniford, cultural commissioner.

"I think it's going to be devastating," he said. "We will certainly lose those performing organizations that need more income."

As performing groups make their exodus from Carmel, the city's image will also change, he said.

"Carmel will abdicate its post as being the cultural center of the peninsula," Heniford said. "It's (reorganization) a major decision that will impact Carmel for 30 to 50 years in the future."

•

THE IDEA for a regional theater began as the brainchild of Monterey city planners, who conducted their own feasibility study earlier this year, according to Fred Meurer, special projects coordinator.

"Because we were going at it at the same time as Carmel we were somewhat confounded," said Meurer, referring to the process in which the regional theater began its path.

In September, the Monterey City Council referred to the city's cultural arts commission the task of trying to bring together all of the peninsula communities for one common goal.

The principal line of reasoning for that decision, Meurer said, was one of logistics.

"It (theater) is not one of those things that any one jurisdiction can handle," he said.

According to the feasibility study prepared for Monterey, a city theater would cost Monterey between $2 million and $9 million, depending on how large the facility is.

The study also said that the city should plan to finance at least half of the construction costs, and in the first few years of operation the city could plan to lose between $100,000 and $400,000.

That, Meurer said, is not an unusually high amount of money to lose on such a traditionally altruistic proposal.

"You don't build theaters to make money," he said. "You build them for a quality of life."

Currently each peninsula city has sent repesentatives to meet with Donna Pinwill, museum manager of the Colton Hall Museum and a Monterey cultural arts commissioner.

Carmel arts commissioners have not been able to attend any of the meetings because those gatherings are scheduled at the same as the cultural commission conducts its monthly meeting.

Pinwill added that the Carmel commission has indicated that it is interested in being kept abreast of any developments of a regional performing arts center.

She said her group will report to the Monterey City Council in January with a recommendation to "push for a regional performing arts center."

•

THE CONCEPT for a regional theater is also gathering support within the county, with the Economic Development Corporation of Monterey County joining in, according to executive director, Rich Kuehn.

Kuehn described the Economic Development Corp. as a private, non-profit business appointed by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors to explore ways to enhance public/private partnerships within the community.

With a typical budget in the neighborhood of $150,000, Kuehn said that his corporation would spend the next three months getting "focused" on the idea of a regional performing arts center.

"We are definitely interested in the potential," he said.

While there is no money allotted for a theater project during the coming year, Kuehn said he has already told the board that the county could reap economic benefits from such an endeavor.

While looking at both Carmel's and Monterey's feasibility studies during the coming months, Kuehn will also explore different methods of out-of-county funding.

"We'll look and see what state and federal projects are out there and how we get those dollars," he said.

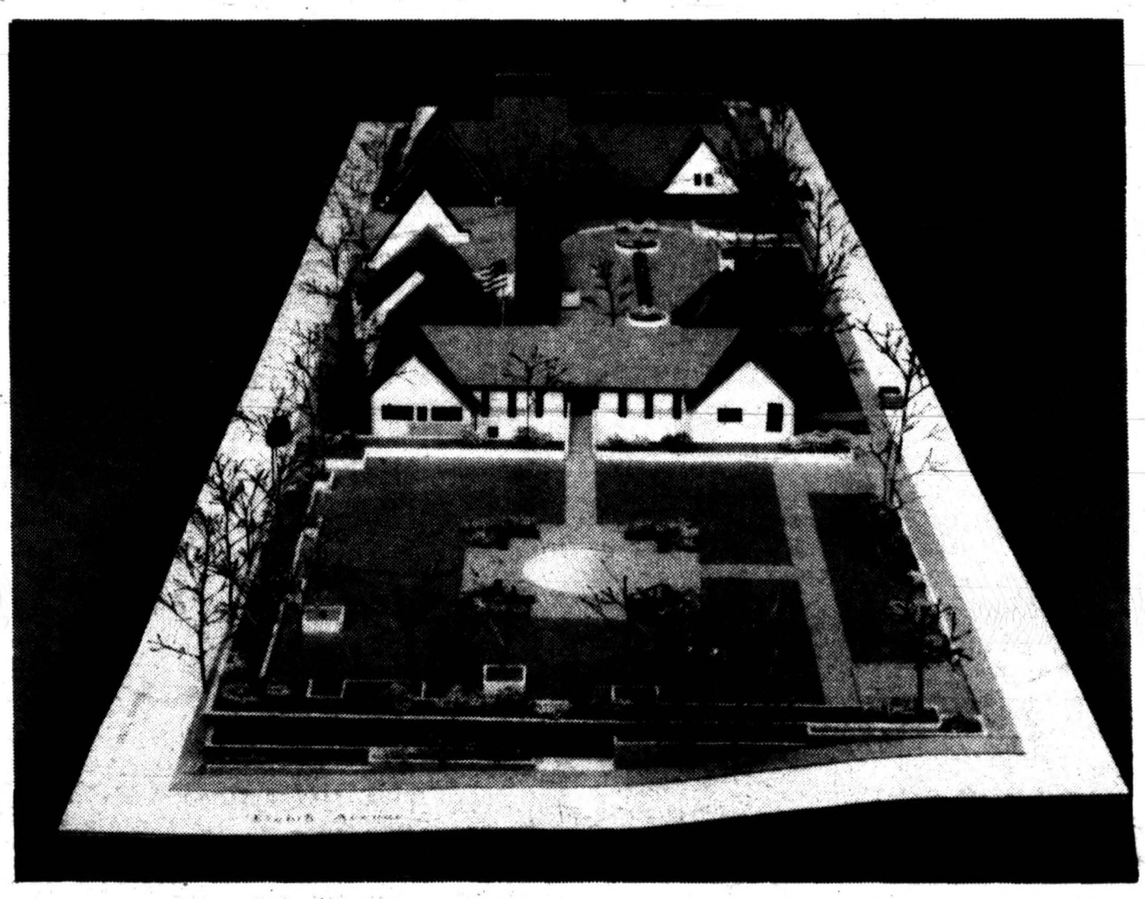
Kuehn pointed out that, by being a private business, money from his office does not have to be directed toward county-owned land.

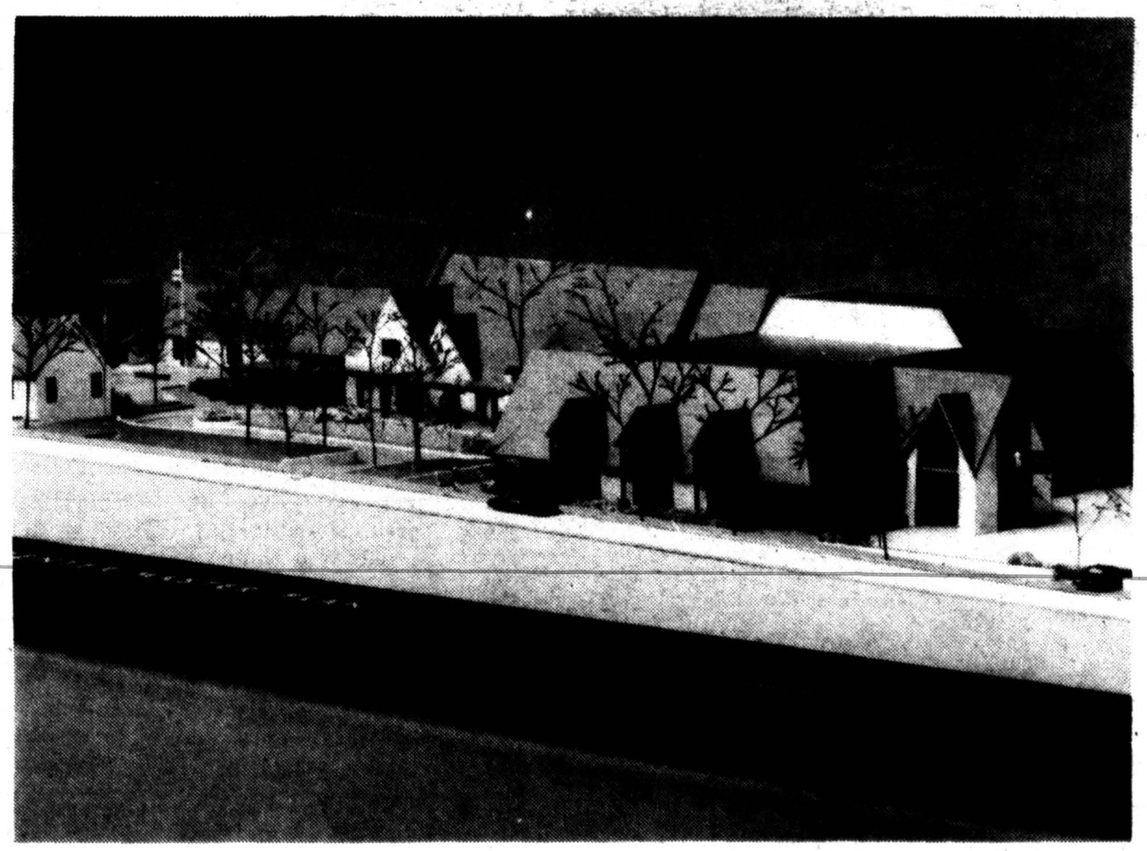
That, he said, leaves the door open for his organization to pursue a proposed performing arts center initiated by the Carmel Unified School District.

The CUSD has tentative plans for a theater having between 500 and 2,000 seats, which is still in the concept design stages.

To be located south of Carmel Middle School with primary access from an extension off Rio Road, which now dead-ends, the complex would take up about 10 to 11 acres of the 60-acre middle school site.

Currently Mikel Pippi is heading up a subcommittee to explore the funding and feasibility for the CUSD performing arts center. He was not available for comment.





LOOKING SOUTH (above) from Eighth Avenue on an artist's model of Sunset Center, the underground parking garage — approved by the planning commission last summer — appears in the forefront. The bottom picture shows the proposed performing arts theater that was abandoned this week by the Friends of Sunset Center, who will take its funding and support outside of Carmel.

Symphonic reconciliation

Dear Editor:

The Monterey Bay Symphony has for the past 18 months actively pursued a policy of reconciliation with the Monterey County Symphony. Partly as a result of this policy, the two symphonies have finally begun to share musicians, though only on a limited and substitute basis. The Monterey Bay Symphony is not simply a collection of interchangeable players, however, but a unique orchestral "personality" developed over years of playing together.

Standing ovations by audiences totaling more than 1,000 concert-goers greeted its most recent performances. It is a vital support of the musical life of Monterey County, where between 40 and 50 of its members make their home. This is the reason that a policy of reconciliation must energetically promote the integrity of the Monterey Bay Symphony rather than merely the employment of some of its individual players by the Monterey County Symphony.

Citizens of Monterey County might well inquire what the policies of Monterey County funding institutions are regarding the existence of the two symphonies. All these institutions receive their support from local taxes or donations.

Is the policy of these institutions dissolution of the Monterey Bay Symphony, as it appears to be, or reconciliation of the two symphonies?

A public response, supported by consistent action, would seem to be obligatory if these institutions are to retain their public trust.

Trouble in Paradise

Dear Editor:

On Nov. 19 the merchants on my block were buzzing about the armed robbery that took place on the 18th, at 4 p.m., right on Ocean Avenue at one of our neighboring shops.

Everyone's reaction was that of shock and fear. We simply thought that in this area we were insulated from this type of thing.

I for one do not want this swept under the carpet. There are reasons why, I believe, this is an event that will not be a one-time happening unless this issue is confronted, analyzed and dealt with.

Twenty-four years

Dear Editor:

I'll soon be celebrating my 24th year of arriving in the Carmel and the greater Monterey Peninsula area.

That was on Dec. 4, 1963 at 5 in the morning. I arrived in an old, worn-out 1949 two-door Chevy that didn't have any upholstery or a working heater. The only way I kept from nearly freezing, after almost seven hours of driving from Santa Monica, was an Army surplus blanket wrapped around my torso and head, and my faithful dog, now buried in the Fourth and Lincoln area.

That was when, unknowingly, I thought the Los Laureles Grade between Highway 68 and Carmel Valley Road was a shortcut. I can still remember the full moon over the valley and the corn stalks along the road. I also remember the silhouette of a cross on one of the hills above the valley. Of course, in my weary condition, I may have been seeing things at that time in the morning.

Those were the days when you could still rent a batten and board house or cabin for well under $150 a month. There were still some older houses listed under $25,000 and Mission Fields was in the high teens and low 20s in price.

In 1964, the then-Carmel City Council turned doen the original plan to build the Village Theater at the corner of Eighth and San Carlos. One of the proposals made by the original two young men that were making this proposal, was that the theater would benefit the whole long-range plan-to-be and the Carmel Bach Festival at Sunset Center.

Well, 24 years later, what's new?

I now own a 1964 four-door Comet, I have two old dogs that don't like policemen, and I've been in bankruptcy since the summer of 1980!

Safer sex

Dear Editor:

Does Safer Sex reduce the transmission of the HIV(AIDS) virus? Abstinence is a safe way of avoiding infection with the virus. The reality of life is, that few will choose this option as a preventive measure.

So now we are tasked with addressing Safer Sex. Whether one is homosexual or heterosexual does not put one at risk of getting infected. The unprotected sex act is what is risky.

The first step for prevention, is to be honest to ourselves about our own sexual practices. Is there such a thing, as the perfect, morally, and acceptable sex act? Maybe we need to take a good hard look at human sexuality, and rather than to condemn, we should learn and try to understand.

No one expects you to agree with a particular sexual behavior or lifestyle. If we learn to understand each other, open our minds, then only we can begin to talk about this complex issue of safe sex.

Shut down NSC

Dear Editor:

Bill Moyers ended his recent program, "The Secret Government," (an analysis of 34 years of U.S. covert actions), with the following statement: "The people who wrote this constitution lived in a world more dangerous than ours. They were surrounded by territory controlled by hostile powers, on the edge of a vast wilderness. Yet they understood that even in perilous times, the strength of self-government was in public debate and public consensus. To put aside these basic values out of fear, to imitate the foe in order to defeat him, is to shred the distinction that makes us different. In the end, not only our values but our methods separate us from our enemies in the world. The decisions we make are inherent in the methods that produce them. An open society cannot survive a secret government. Constitutional democracy you see is no romantic notion. It's our defense against ourselves, the one foe who might defeat us."

The National Security Act signed by Truman in 1947 created the National Security Council (NSC) and the CIA. Let's look at some of their record: Overthrew the popular governments in Iran (Mossedegh), Guatemal (Arbenze), and Chile (Allende.) Attempted to overthrow Castro and made eight documented attempts to assassinate him. Orchestrated the murder of 100,000 civilians in Laos and Cambodia. In Nicaragua the CIA/NSC story is becoming well known.

Where we have been successful in overthrowing communist-aligned governments, repressive military dictatorships have followed. Even if democracies had resulted, would the death and destruction accompanying our actions have been justified?

From where I sit, the Congress should close down the NSC and limit the CIA to its original mission of intelligence gathering. Is there a presidential candidate that speaks to this?

Violating the plan

Dear Editor:

It appears that the ordinance dealing with conditional uses permitting parking on residential property wouldn't work if a parking garage was to be built by Pine Inn on its one and the city's three lots. But surely the council can't OK amending the General Plan that doctors up one part if the result is a violation of a dozen other parts of the plan's goals, policies, and objectives.

Let's not kid ourselves that a commercial parking garage is going to "maintain Carmel's residential character" and "limit commercial activity both as to volume and physical land spread."

Or are we going to amend that out of the General Plan too?

Extraordinary event

Dear Editor:

Two months have now passed by since the extraordinary eventful visitation of Pope John Paul II to Carmel Mission Basilica and Carmel.

My family and I, along with thousands of others, were privileged to be in the Carmel Mission Courtyard to hear His Holiness address, bless and share a solemn message, stressing the love of God, evangelization and purpose of life. Pope John Paul II also gave much credit to Fray Junipero Serra for his heroic beginnings of the Missions.

The day dawned beautifully clear and the singing and rejoicing of the children, the pealing of the ancient mission bells, sending forth their welcome amid the beautiful bougainvillea, made a perfect setting for this once in a lifetime occasion. Everyone was in a happy mood, sensitive to its inner meaning, enjoying picnic lunches, taking pictures and listening intently to the pope's words of wisdom. It was a perfect day.

We wish to congratulate your paper for the part it played in the success of this occasion. Giving all the previous information month by month of the preparations it took to bring about its completion, including publishing the pope's message which I have given to several of my friends.

To the clergy, volunteers, organizations and friends involved, "congratulations to all." Long may Carmel remember this auspicious day and its meaning along life's way in the future.

Caltrans not budging

Wide gap exists on plans for Hatton freeway

By DAVID LELAND

CALTRANS OFFICIALS and Assemblyman Sam Farr's community group are once again butting heads on design changes recommended for the proposed $25 million Hatton Canyon Freeway project.

In September, local architect David Martin, representing Farr and concerned citizens, presented three major areas of change residents believe are necessary for safety and convenience along the 2.8-mile stretch of road, which will realign parts of Highway 1 and create two new lanes so the road has four lanes.

The areas of contention expressed by Martin exist at Carpenter Street and Highway 1, Carmel Valley Road and Highway 1 and Rio Road and Highway 1.

But even though the two sides appeared amiable at a Sept. 11 meeting, talks have taken a turn for the worse, with Farr calling for a third party to step in and help find a solution.

"Our position is that we feel, perhaps, we have gone as far as we can go with Caltrans," said Fred Keely, Farr's chief of staff.

Keely said Farr has been working about 10 months with Caltrans in an attmempt iron out differences. He added that there is overwhelming support in the district for the design changes.

"We have yet to find a constituent that blindly supports Caltrans' position," he said. He added that while there is a mailing list of only 60 concerned citizens, those 60 represent many more, such as neighborhood groups and political affiliations.

Meanwhile, Caltrans is going ahead with a draft of its final impact statement for the project, which is scheduled for release to state officials in Sacramento early next month, according to Caltrans project engineer Ken Jones.

"We're proceeding as if this group (Farr's) does not exist," said Jones, referring to the preparation of the impact statement.

He added that the document will be available to the public in July of 1988, with construction slated to begin in 1990.

The project will take about two years to complete, he said.

But that's not to say the Caltrans is not considering the design changes being proposed by the citizens group.

Quite the contrary is true, according to Tom Pollock, Caltrans district director. But Pollock contends that the plans — now in the final stages — are the best possible remedy for the now-overcrowded and dangerous roadway.

"The frustration is coming from the same or similar ideas being resurrected that have previously been rejected," wrote Pollock in a Nov. 17 letter to Farr.

•

FARR, HOWEVER, believes the changes contained in his recommendations must be considered in order come up with the best possible plan.

"Sam's goal is to have a project that addresses the needs of Carmel and Carmel Valley," Keely said.

Among Farr's recommendations are:

- Modifying the Carpenter Street interchange to relocate the high meadow connection to opposite Handley Drive, which will lower the crossing structure elevation about 60 feet.
- A free right turn offramp onto Carpenter Street from the freeway.
- Connecting the "ends" of San Luis Avenue to make it one continuous loop and close off access from Highway 1.
- Invert the Carmel Valley Road interchange so Carmel Valley Road goes over the freeway instead of under.

"An inverted interchange plan, with the highway crossing under Carmel Valley Road, cannot be designed with good traffic safety features," said Pollock, however, in a letter to Farr.

- At-grade intersection at Rio Road instead of an elevated overpass and large 25 by 50-foot earth berm.
- Free right turn onto Rio Road from Highway 1 northbound and from Rio Road back onto Highway 1 northbound.

To say the the two sides are far apart on these changes would be an understatement — even the solution of a mediator has run into snags.

Farr believes that the expense of hiring a consultant should be picked up by both Caltrans and the citizens group, while Jones said Caltrans has more than enough staff to come up with the right information and doesn't need to hire anyone.

But Keely says the Caltrans engineers who meet with citizens advisory group don't always paint a accurate picture.

THE WIDE dotted line in this picture denotes the proposed route widely endorsed by Caltrans and area residents for the Hatton Canyon Freeway. There are certain aspects of the $25 million plan, however, that have Assemblyman Sam Farr and a local citizens' group fuming.

"The Caltrans engineers are trying to convince everyone else of the correctness of their position," he said.

Jones remains convinced that the majority of the community is satisfied with the final plans for the project, which has been on the drawing boards for the past 30 years.

He adds that if in future talks there is a true cross-section of citizens the results will always be the same.

"If we have competent people on the review committee they will come back with the same plan we have now," Jones said.

It is this seeming lack of enthusiasm for meeting with the community that has Farr fuming.

"I am left to wonder why, after nearly three decades of work on this project, Caltrans would adopt a position of reluctance to meet with the community and their elected officials at the very point where a specific design is at issue," Farr wrote in a letter to Caltrans.

While both sides agree that the project is still on line and in no danger of losing its state funding, the conflict regarding the design changes could eventually affect the project.

Jones said if any changes are too extensive, the process would again have to go before the public and the environmental impact statement would have to be modified.

Jones said he is surprised by the rather militant approach being taken by the community — after the September meeting he thought the two sides were fairly close together.

Farr, on the other hand, seems disgusted with the way productive talks have ground to a halt.

"The approach taken by your staff has, in my view, been minimally civil, and, at times, not even that," he said.

Carmel police seek man involved in attempted robbery

By DAVID LELAND

A WARRANT was issued this week for a man accused of robbing a downtown Carmel clothing store, who escaped empty-handed.

Harry De Soto, 33, is accused of trying to rifle the cash register at Impressions D'Italia at the corner of Ocean and Monte Verde and then pulling a .45-caliber gun on clerk Charles Levy after Levy first tried to block his exit from the store, then followed him outside.

De Soto, no known address, has a misdemeanor record with several peninsula police departments for petty theft offenses, according to Carmel Police Lt. John Bowman.

Last summer De Soto was arrested in Carmel after stealing a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals collection box at the Carmel Plaza, Bowman said.

Shortly after noon last Wednesday, Levy, who was watching the store while his cousin, Guth, went to lunch, saw a man he later identified as De Soto, enter the shop.

"I need a suit," the man said, "I'm waiting for a friend."

Levy then heard the cash register open and alleges De Soto began pulling money from the cash drawer.

Levy quickly closed and locked the front door so he could trap the man inside the store — he then ran outside and told a passerby to call the police.

At that point Levy alleges De Soto unlocked the door and walked south on Monte Verde Street, just south of Ocean Avenue, and Levy grabbed him from behind.

De Soto allegedly turned around and pulled a steel handgun with a brown handgrip on Levy and said, "Stay away or I'll kill you."

"I grabbed him from behind and was ready to hit him," said Levy, in a telephone interview. "But after he said 'I'll kill you' I said OK."

Levy added that he was not scared because he had spent several years in Israel, where most people own guns and where he became used to them.

Shortly after the robbery, in which police claim De Soto escaped with no money after dropping a $5 bill on the ground, a neighbor telephoned police and said that a man answering the robber's description had driven off in a bronze-colored El Camino pick-up truck.

Seaside police stopped a man driving a truck answering that description later that evening, and upon questioning the man drove off.

After a short chase, the El Camino rammed into a truck and a man fitting De Soto's description fled on foot and could not be found.

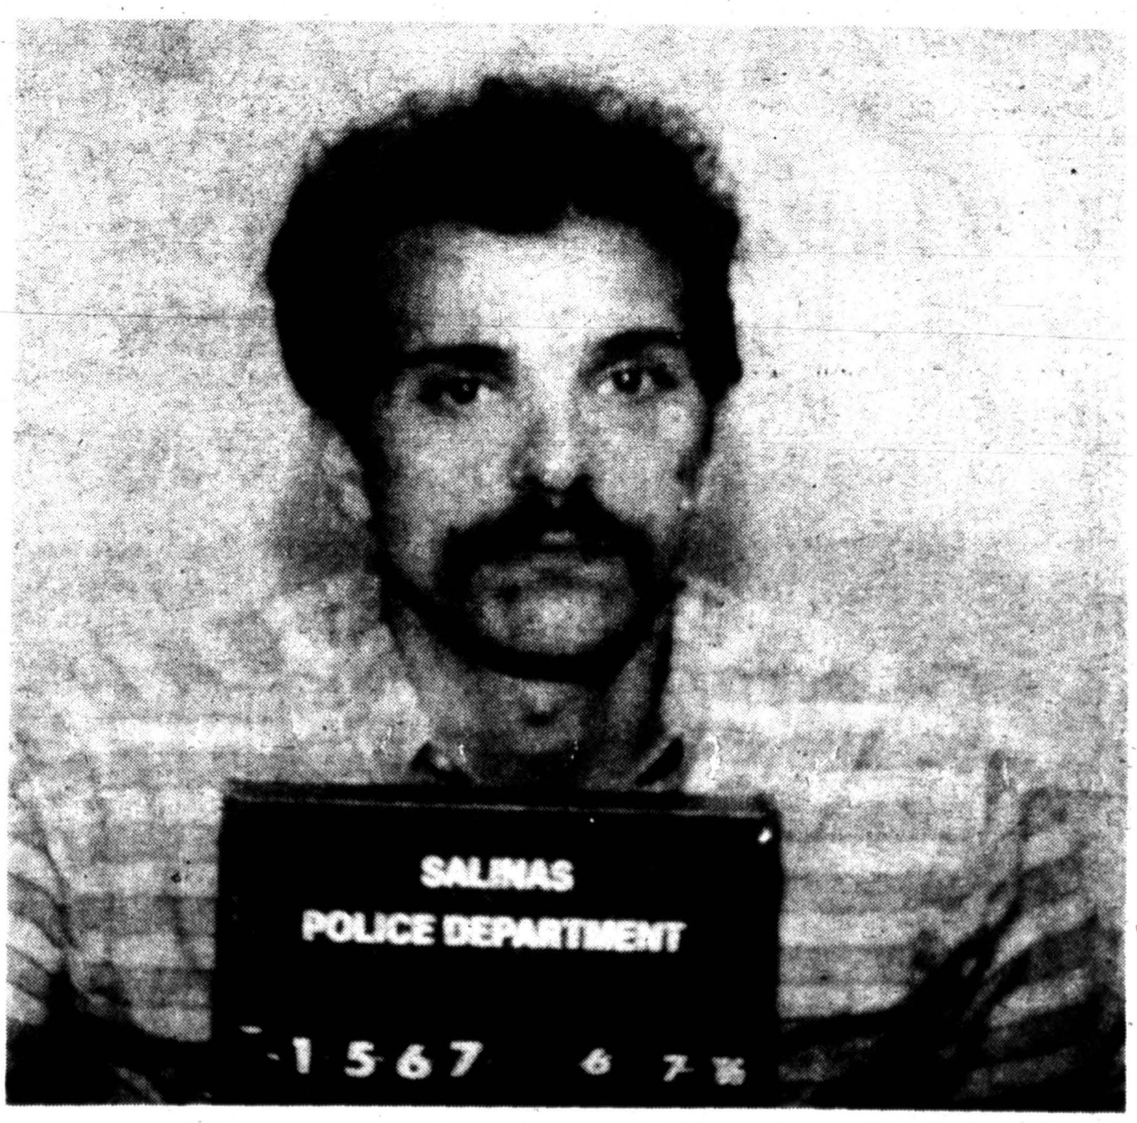
Bowman said police were able to identify De Soto after the owner of the El Camino was contacted and told authorities that he had loaned the car to a man named "Harry."

Police than showed "mugs" or gallery of pictures, to an eyewitness and two peninsula police officers, with all four identifying De Soto as the suspect.

Bowman added that there may be a connection between last week's robbery and a similar crime commited Nov. 15 at International Showcase in The Crossroads.

That robbery involved a man wandering around the store and then pulling a pistol on a salesclerk and escaping with about $1,000, according to The Crossroads manager Gary Moreira.

The Monterey County Sheriff's Department, which handles cases outside of Carmel, was not available for comment.



POLICE ARE still searching for Harry De Soto, who is accused of last week's armed robbery of Impression D'Italia in downtown Carmel. Even though De Soto escaped with no money, he faces up to 15 years in prison if convicted. (Photo courtesy of Carmel Police Department.)

Planners recommend EIR for controversial R-4

By NANCY HILLS

THE R-4 district's proposed zoning changes should have an environmental impact report, the Carmel Planning Commission unanimously determined.

It took the commission only a few minutes Nov. 18 to decide it would recommend that the city conduct an EIR on proposed zoning for the area between Third and Fifth avenues and Torres Street and Junipero Avenue.

The Carmel City Council will consider whether or not to mandate an EIR for the zone at its Dec. 8 meeting.

The commission requested that different densities be examined and the impact of rezoning to RC be included in the report.

"Let's hope the council sees it like the planning commission sees it," Clayton Anderson said after the meeting.

Anderson is president of the Northeast Carmel Neighbors Association, which led the drive for an EIR on the proposed changes in the R-4 zone.

The zone is intended as a buffer between the commercial district and the residential district, which starts at Torres Street.

It includes Thomas Handley's property, presently occupied by the Hayward Lumber Co. Proposed densities allowed by zoning changes sparked vigorous opposition from neighbors to the property and other residents of Carmel.

The Northeast Carmel Neighbors Association collected more than 1,300 signatures against increasing the density in portions of the R-4 district from its current 33 units per acre to 66 units per acre.

The petition requested that an EIR be prepared on the specific plan for the R-4 zone before approval of the zoning.

That density would permit more than 50 apartment units on the Handley property, and more if the development qualified for a state-mandated density bonus for low- or moderate-income housing.

About 150 citizens appeared to oppose the proposed zoning at a planning commission meeting earlier this year.

The protests prompted the Carmel City Council to begin negotiations with Thomas Handley to purchase the 53,900 square foot site that borders Torres Street and contains some of the finest views of Point Lobos and Carmel Bay in the city.

A postcard survey conducted by Mayor Clint Eastwood indicated that more than 80 percent of Carmel voters want the city to purchase the property, which is the largest single piece of developable property in Carmel. The site is believed by many to be worth between $2 and $3 million.

The Handley property, however, is only one portion of the R-4 zone. There are many smaller parcels that will be included in the EIR.

Robert Murphy owns a 20,000 square foot section on the corner of Junipero and Fourth avenues, also currently being used as a lumberyard, which is being considered for an increase in density from 33 to 66 units per acre. That would permit construction of about 30 units on the site.

Attorney James Heisinger, representing Murphy, told the commission he felt an EIR was unneccessary and unfair.

Murphy had "purchased interest" in the property in 1984 and submitted plans for townhouse-style condominiums, Heisinger said.

"Then, the zoning allowed 18 condominiums with 80 percent coverage," Heisinger said.

Since then there have been more than 17 public hearings on the R-4 specific plan, which is incorporated in the zoning changes.

"With all due respect, after three years, my client's patience is waning," he said.

Heisinger's sentiments were repeated by Don Hubbard, Handley's attorney.

"I must say we've all been frustrated by delays in the planning process," he said. Hubbard suggested taking the Handley property out of the EIR until the city council made a decision about buying it.

Countering both Murphy's and Handley's attorneys, NE Carmel Neighbors Association's Steven Poohar stated "we're talking about the facts today, not in 1984.

"The petition requests that an EIR be done on 'the project' not just the Handley property," he said.

"The project" includes the entire district, Poohar added.

"Whether or not Handley is acquired by the city is not the issue before you," he told the commission. "The purchase of the property doesn't make the issue go away."

That issue is the impact the changes in zoning will have on the surrounding neighborhood, Poohar said.

The commission, however, was ready to vote to recommend an EIR.

City Atty. Don Freeman told the commission must require an EIR if there is sufficient public controversy that centers around environmental issues.

"I don't find any way to escape an EIR," Commissioner Ed Hicks said, but asked if there was a way to exclude some of the smaller property owners from the report. In particular, Hicks wished to remove Olive Smith's property on Junipero Avenue.

Smith had asked the commission to rezone her property to residential-commercial, stating she had been waiting for a decision for four years.

The commission, however, felt the entire R-4 should be included and the impact of rezoning to RC also be an issue in the EIR.

"There never has been any doubt in my mind that an EIR is needed," Commissioner Carla Ramsey said. "An EIR could address all the different uses possible on the Handley property and address the impact of different densities."

Chairman Ken White observed when the commission must decide on mandating an EIR "the longer we have waited to decide that issue, the longer the property owners have to wait."

All the commissioners agreed and the vote was unanimous.

Indians to protest at mission Nov. 29

CARMEL MISSION Indians will be caravaning Nov. 28 to all Costanoan missions to pray and show the unity of the brotherhood in a land claim of Carmel Mission Indians.

Tribal chairman Anthony Miranda, who led the Indian prayer vigil during the visit of Pope John Paul II, will lead the group in prayer of peace and unity. There will be a peaceful protest in front of the Carmel Mission Sunday, Nov. 29.

Miranda claims that Father Junipero Serra willed the California missions to the California Indians.

Healthy holiday means care in food handling

STUFFING YOURSELF with too much turkey on Thanksgiving can make you sick. So can improper handling of the bird.

The National Academy of Sciences estimates that two types of bacteria common in poultry — salmonella and campylobacter — are together responsible for 4 million cases of food poisoning a year.

Poultry is not inspected for bacterial contamination before it leaves the processing plant, and you can't tell whether or not a bird is contaminated just by looking at it. There's really litle choice but to treat all birds as if they were bad.

Fortunately, poultry-related food poisoning is largely preventable. Cooking destroys bacteria. The food technologists at Consumer Reports point out that in most cases, it's not the cooked poultry meat itself that makes you sick, but bacteria that have been transferred from the raw bird to other foods.

Say, for example, you cut up a chicken on a wooden cutting board. Then, after a cursory rinse, you use the same board to chop up onions, celery and other vegetables for salad. By not washing the board thoroughly, there's a good chance you'll be ingesting salmonella and campylobacter along with your greens.

A few simple precautions will keep you and your family healthy, however.

In the store, make the poultry freezer your last stop before you check out. A frozen turkey will start thawing faster than you think, so head straight home and store the bird immediately.

Wash your hands both before and after you handle food. If you have cuts, abrasions or skin infections, wear gloves.

Don't thaw your turkey on the kitchen counter. Bacteria love their food at room temperature and will spread rapidly across the surface of a bird. The safest way to thaw poultry is in the refrigerator with a tray to catch drips.

If you don't have a few days, put the bird in a watertight plastic bag. Then place the bagged bird in a large bowl or clean sink and cover with cold water. The water must be cold enough to keep bacteria from multiplying on the outside. Change the water every half-hour. Using that method, expect to thaw an 8-pound bird in about four hours; a 24-bird in about 12 hours.

All raw poultry should be rinsed with cold water. That won't kill the bacteria, but it will wash them off the surface. Make sure the runoff doesn't land on other foods.

After handling raw poultry, scrub your hands, utensils and all work surfaces thoroughly — a simple rinse won't do.

Chopping boards, butcher-block counter tops and other surfaces made of porous wood should be scrubbed with soap and hot water, then rinsed with diluted bleach for extra safety.

Cook turkey at 325 degrees or higher. At low temperatures, a large bird takes more than four hours to get hot enough to kill bacteria. Even at higher temperatures, the heat takes a long time to penetrate through the stuffing. The best bet is to cook stuffing separately.

Don't judge doneness by color. The turkey is done when a meat thermometer reads between 170 and 180 degrees.

Refrigerate cooked foods as soon as possible before they have a chance to cool. Keep your refrigerator colder than 40 degrees. And don't get too attached to your turkey leftovers. Eat what you can in two or three days, then either freeze what's left or throw it away.

TURKEYS ARE often the centerpiece of the traditional Thanksgiving meal, but care should be taken when handling turkey (and all other poultry) for a healthy holiday season.

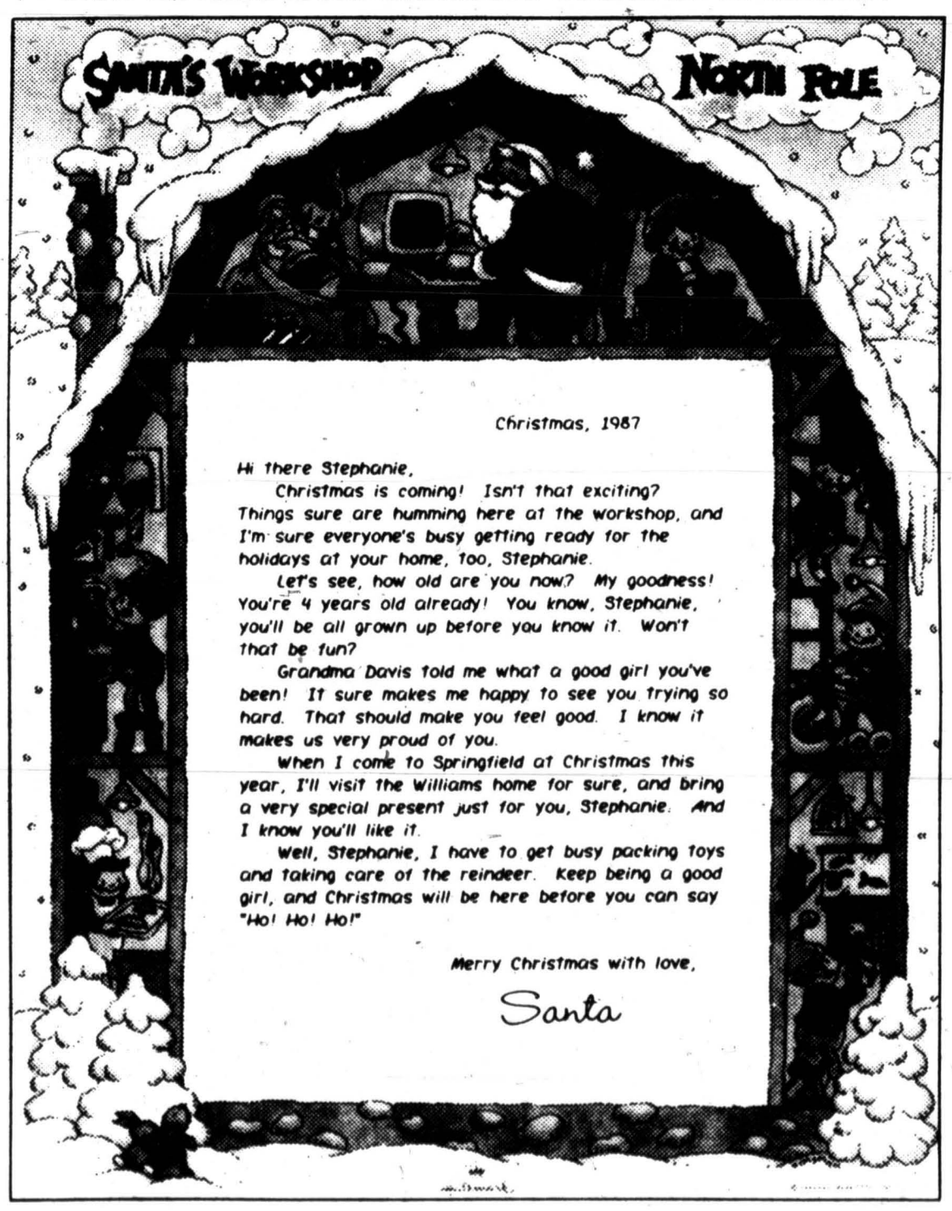
New Letters from Santa for Children or Adults!



SANTA'S WORKSHOP
NORTH POLE
Christmas, 1987
Hi there Stephanie,
Christmas is coming! Isn't that exciting? Things sure are humming here at the workshop, and I'm sure everyone's busy getting ready for the holidays at your home, too, Stephanie.
Let's see, how old are you now? My goodness! You're 4 years old already! You know, Stephanie, you'll be all grown up before you know it. Won't that be fun?
Grandma Davis told me what a good girl you've been! It sure makes me happy to see you trying so hard. That should make you feel good. I know it makes us very proud of you.
When I come to Springfield at Christmas this year, I'll visit the Williams home for sure, and bring a very special present just for you, Stephanie. And I know you'll like it.
Well, Stephanie, I have to get busy packing toys and taking care of the reindeer. Keep being a good girl, and Christmas will be here before you can say "Ho! Ho! Ho!"
Merry Christmas with love,
Santa

Two great new personalized letters from Santa carry the recipient's name, and yours! The "nice" one's for all the special kids in your life, and the "naughty" one is a tease—fun for adult family and friends.

Hospice reveals plans for new Monterey facility

HOSPICE OF the Monterey Peninsula will pursue expansion of the inpatient component of its care program with plans to build a 24-bed inpatient care center in Monterey, according to Robert Brower, chairman of the board.

The new care center will replace the existing six-bed facility located on Carmel Valley Road.

"Hospice is running efficiently and is well supported by a generous community," Brower said. "However, by making some changes, we can do a better job with our community's generosity.

"The board of directors feels a strong responsibility for stewardship of charitable funds and wishes to assure the long-term future of Hospice care in the community."

According to Brower, the board has been evaluating the program for more than 15 months and has made this decision based on careful study of the facts and figures. "The larger care center will allow Hospice to provide a broader scope of care to more patients. It will also enable Hospice to provide a comprehensive pediatric hospice care program as a necessary component of its service."

Brower announced a major step toward realizing the new care center. "The Pebble Beach Co. has set aside 3.5 acres of land within the context of their plans to develop the Old Capitol site in Monterey as the future location for our Hospice care center. Their generous gift will give us the ideal location for a facility serving the entire peninsula as well as outlying communities.

"The Carmel Valley facility is running at capacity," Brower said. "Projections indicate that more demand will be placed on the program due to an aging population with a higher incidence of life-threatening illness."

Brower also pointed out to the growing need for pediatric hospice care in the community. "Stanford Children's Hospital and UCSF Hospital have recently been referring children to our care program." According to the American Cancer Society, cancer claims more children ages 3 to 14 than any other disease. "Only 400 of the nation's 1,600 hospices offer pediatric care. We are among the leaders in the field in providing this important care."

A further consideration in the decision to build a larger facility is related to the high fixed cost ratios involved in operating a six-bed skilled nursing facility. Brower stated that a 24-bed facility would reduce cost per bed day from $580 to $135.

"The savings is estimated at $400,000 per year," Brower said. "At the lower cost, insurance reimbursement will be adequate to cover a much greatert portion of the patient care expenses. The new care center will approach a break-even operting budget and will lessen the dependence on charitable gifts which we currently face.

"With the gift of land, we estimate that $5 million will be needed to build the facility," stated Brower. The board will begin seeking those funds from foundations and major donors. A community-wide campaign is planned in the future.

"We believe that we will have the new care center ready for service in three years. It will serve not just those facing imminent death, but those in pain during all stages of disease," Brower said. "It will serve more patients with the same kind of competent and loving care associated with Hospice now; and it will provide it to children as well as adults."

Carmel High band concert Dec. 3

CARMEL HIGH School students have taken time out from their Australian tour preparations to concentrate on an upcoming concert.

The Winter Concert, set for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 3 at Sunset Center, will feature such favorites as Pachelbel's Canon, and Ballet Parisien by Offenbach performed by the CHS Chamber Orchestra.

Selection by the Concert Wind Ensemble include Bugler's Holiday, by Leroy Anderson, Amparito Roca by Jaime Texidor and 'Twas the Night Before Christmas with a special narration by Scott MacClelland, founding president of the Youth Orchestra of Monterey County and publisher of Prelude magazine.

The Jazz Ensemble will premiere an original arrangement of Carmel Jam Blues and Dizzy Gillespie's Oop Bop Sh-bam. Another highlight of the evening will be an appearance by the Ace Hill Trio.

A holiday reception will follow the concert. Admission is $2 for students and $5 for adults, all to raise funds for the bands' trip to Australia next June.

WE SHARE, YOU CAN TOO.

FOCUS (Friends Of Carmel Unified Schools) is a charitable, non-profit corporation whose purpose is to raise funds and to spend those funds for the benefit of the students of the Carmel Unified School District. FOCUS is an all-volunteer group of parents, teachers, and interested citizens.

Funds raised by FOCUS are applied directly to the classroom. Over the years expenditures by FOCUS have included everything from the purchase of computers and computer programs for all schools, to the acquisition of field guides for high school biology classes, to the purchase of tricycles for use by kindergarteners.

Sometime after the first week of November, most residents of the school district will be receiving a one-time State of California rebate. The minimum rebate will be $32.00; some persons will receive over $200.00.

FOCUS is asking you to SHARE this windfall with the students of the Carmel Unified School District. Each week we will publish the names of those persons who have chosen to SHARE. Please take a few moments to complete the attached pledge and return it to us. When your pledge is received, your name will be added to our honor roll.

When you SHARE your rebate with us, you can rest assured that all funds raised by FOCUS will be spent by FOCUS for the education of our children. Contributions to FOCUS are tax deductible for taxpayers who itemize.

Concerns expressed over county's Kenan Report

By DAVID LELAND

COUNTY SUPERVISORS are finding that it's somewhat easier to talk about simplifying the county permit process than actually pulling it off.

During the past few months — for about an hour each week — the Monterey County Board of Supervisors have heard portions of the Kenan Report, a $200,000 study completed earlier this year designed to "streamline" the county's building permit process.

While the board has agreed with all but one of Tom Kenan's recommendations and the report is moving ahead, that approval often is preceeded by boardmembers expressing fears over a potential stifling of the public process.

"It's very clear that there is concern," said Kenan, a former county administrator. "The boardmembers are concerned about the lessening of public participation, which is no less than can be expected."

To the casual observer the supervisors may appear to be nitpicking. But upon further examination they simply don't want to be surprised somewhere down the line.

A recent example of this occured two weeks ago when Kenan — in his 224-page report — suggested that the county planning department update the zoning codes. Many of these are so old they are no longer in accordance with the county's general plan.

While none of the supervisors disagreed with the basic premise, 1st District Supervisor Marc Del Piero said he worried that in rewriting the ordinances, planners might remove the public hearing requirments on some items.

Del Piero added that if the supervisors eliminate any opportunity for general public input they will be going contrary to the philosophy of government in Monterey County.

So the question of how to get zoning updated without losing the crucial input was discussed at length by the board.

The upshot of that recommendation was for the board to review any changes made in the zoning ordinances before they become law.

•

EVEN THOUGH the board has had to tackle some ticklish recommendations, supervisors are optimistic that the Kenan Report will facilitate changes in what some consider the most overworked and understaffed branch of county government.

"The Planning Department is understaffed and overcrowded and we've publicly recognized that," said 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman. "Everyone will be well-served by the changes we are making now."

Perhaps the most significant change adopted by the board, thus far, is the consolidation of the building inspection and planning departments.

Effective January next year, prospective builders will be able to receive their permits at one department, previously there had often been confusion and miscommunication on the part of the land-use applicants because of the old system.

The board stopped short, however, of relocating the two departments in the old Social Services Building on Natividad Road, as was recommended by Kenan and his two partners Lee Williams and Jim Cook, both administrative analysts with the county.

Kenan believed that the space currently occupied by the two departments in the Salinas Courthouse is too small to operate efficiently. Plus, as a state office, the social services could lease a different building and be reimbursed for that expense.

Instead, the board directed its capital improvement committee to work with the two departments and county officials in coming up with another option to be presented to the board within the next five years.

After the final Kenan recommendation is heard in late January, supervisors hope to have lessened the amount of red tape that some land-use applicants must endure for seemingly simple tasks such as building a fence or deck.

Many times applicants are currently shuffled from one office to the other, these can even be located on different parts of the peninsula.

Strasser Kauffman said most of the recommendations will be in place shortly after the first of the year, something she presented as a goal one year ago.

"We don't want to cut short the public process," she said. "This strengthening is intended to make staff service more efficient."

FIRST DISTRICT Supervisor Marc Del Piero has been vigilant in making sure the public process stays intact during the recent board hearings aimed at streamlining the county's land-use permit process.

Goodwill trailer makes visit to Mid Valley

GOODWILL INDUSTRIES' "rotating" Attended Donation Station trailer will make its year-end visit to Carmel Mid Valley from Friday, Nov. 20, through Thursday, Jan. 7.

The big blue & white trailer with the "Smiling G" logo will be open at the Carmel Mid Valley Shopping Center every day from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and 1:30 to 5 p.m. when an attendant is on hand to help unload donations and to provide a receipt for use at tax time. Goodwill urges donors to visit the station during attended hours, to ensure their donations reach Goodwill in good condition.

Donations from residents and businesses are sold by Goodwill, providing over 85 percent of their revenue to finance vocational rehabilitation services for people with disabilities. More than 350 people this year have received services that include vocational evaluation, counseling, job skills training and job placement.

Dave Ratliff, Goodwill's director of the chain of Attended Donation Stations, noted that with the approach of the holiday giving season, donations of unused clothing, furniture, household goods, tools, toys and knick-knacks are especially needed. "They make the future brighter for disabled people."

For information on the location of other, permanently installed, Goodwill Donation Stations, or to make special attangements to donate items too large or heavy to bring to a trailer, call Goodwill at 646-8567.

Tree-lighting ceremony set for Thursday, Dec. 3

THE CITY of Carmel's annual tree-lighting ceremony will be held Dec. 3 at Devendorf Park.

The ceremony will be held at 5:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 3.

Complimentary cookies and hot cider will be served from the Carmel Youth Center's Bingmobiles at the park.

In addition, entertainment will be provided by singers from the Frohman Academy and Carmel Caroling Company. Once again Steve Tosh will be playing the keyboards during the yearly event. Santa will also be on hand to pass out candy canes to the kiddies.

After the ceremonies, Mayor Clint Eastwood will hand out awards for winners of the Carmel Business Association's annual window-decorating contest.

For more information on the event contact either city hall or the Carmel Business Association.

Holidays & wash sales

AND HERE we are again, all travelers on the good ship Peninsula Princess, cuising into Monterey Bay after another year-long cruise. That's right, the holiday season and the end of the year are upon us once more. During the next five or six weeks our thoughts will be focused on turkeys, giftwrap, and year-end tax strategies.

When we kicked off this column of financial wizardry a year ago, we dedicated most of our early efforts to the Tax Reform Act of 1986. We thought we had a pretty good handle on it back then but now we're not so sure. Just ask your accountant. This new act is a labyrinthine and treacherous as all the past legislation that our chums on the Potomac have devised.

Since our desire is that you should stride into the New Year on steady ground, we thought we'd spend the next few issues reviewing the traditional year-end tax strategies rather than try to unravel the more knotty problems Tax Reform has wrought. We can't stress too often that your accountant or tax attorney is the person to see about what's pertinant to your case. And the sooner you see that person, the better your holiday season and new year will be.

How can we help?

First off, we can remind you that there are some distinct and special rules that apply to year-end sales of securities. If your eye is on the tax man, you should have a clear understanding of what are called wash sales.

Tax law requires taxpayers who make sales of securities at a loss (repeat: at a loss) to wait at least 30 days before reacquiring the securities sold. If you sell 100 shares of General Motors simply to establish a capital loss, you must wait a minimum of 30 days to repurchase 100 shares of General Motors; otherwise you must postpone recognition and deductibility of the loss.

This rule is imposed to account for the fact that the taypayer's economic position has not changed, i.e., he still has the same position in the security. After 30 days, tax law assumes you've been at sufficient market risk to initiate a new position as far as taxes are concerned.

You should note, however, that this rule only applies to the realization of losses, not gains. There is no wash sale rule for gains. Therefore, you may sell and subsequently repurchase identical securities in order to realize capital gains.

Next week: The tax benefits of bond swaps.

APPLICATION FOR STAGE LINE PERMIT UNDER CONSIDERATION

Many Carmel and Highlands residents were in attendance at Colton Hall in Monterey last Tuesday afternoon on the occasion of the hearing on the application of Charles C. Smith to the state railroad commission for permission to conduct a through passenager and merchandise service between Carmel Highlands and Monterey.

Former Assemblyman William T. Satterwhile, examiner for the commission, conducted the hearing, and will lay all the data and testimony and his own recommendation before his superviors. The application will be granted or denied within three weeks, so 'tis said.

There is particular demand for a service that will meet the two trains that arrive at Monterey at night.

EDITORIAL: OFF TO A GOOD START

Fifty people signed up as members of the new Carmel theatrical group at its organization meeting last Friday afternoon. And that was before the real start of the membership campaign. It appears very probable that number will be doubled, at least, within a very few days. Never before has there been such widespread, generous and enthusiastic interest in a dramatic project without a struggle the theatrical phase of community activity which has been so much a part of the village ever since its inception.

Membership in the organization costs $1 for a series of plays. That enlists a large group of people interested in one phase or another of the groups' activities: acting, writing, technical owkr, prospective audience, or just "good will."

MUSHROOM DEATH

A death from mushroom poisoning in Santa Cruz County last week has cause Mr. Myron B. Husband, director of public health for Monterey County, to repeat previous warnings about the danger of eating mushrooms gathered on hillsides or fields.

Winter rains bring forth mushrooms and toadstools in profusion, and while many are edible, the poisonous variety are also present, he advises. Even experts have difficulty distinguishing between edible and non-edible types, Dr. Husband stresses, and adds that placing a silver spoon or coin in the pot in which mushrooms are cooked or washed is not a reliable safety test.

The safest procedure, he says, is not to collect mushrooms at all, but to buy cultured mushrooms sold in food markets. These are safe and the cost is not prohibitive.

CITY AUDIT FINDS FLAWS

An adult of Carmel city finances through June has turned up bookkeeping gaffes, unreconciled bank statements and a lack of thoroughness in business transactions.

No wrongdoing was implied by the auditors, but they have urged the Carmel City Council to hire an additional employee to improve controls on finance procedures.

The audit covered the fiscal year of 1967-77. It was conducted by Haskins and Sells, the Salinas accounting firm. The firm completed the audit Aug. 26 and returned an eight-page letter that urges several changes in the city finance department. The letter was given to the council last week although it was dated Sept. 6.

City Administrator Jack Collins said he would follow the suggestion if the City Council authorizes hiring an additional finance officer to carry out the changes. Councilman David Hughes, a businessman, led the move that resulted in the audit.

CARMEL SCHOOL DISTRICT WANTS STUDENTS TO LEARN COMPUTERS

Computers are not new to the Carmel Unified School District; however a special committee has drawn up plans that would give every student a chance to learn how to use one before graduation.

The extensive proposal will be presented to the board of education at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 30 in Room 2 of Carmel High School.

"What we are trying to do first of all is give a structure to the use of the computers the district has, and secondly purchase enough so that all students will have the opportunity to use the computers," committee chairman and Carmel Middle School Principal Frank Lynch told the Pine Cone/Outlook last week.

The committee, which has worked on the proposal since early fall, consists of parents, teachers and administrators.

County seeking CSA 43 members

FIFTH DISTRICT Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman is inviting applications from interested constituents for a three-year appointment to the Monterey County Service Area No.43 Advisory Committee.

The committee advises the board of supervisors in all matters of fire protection in its area.

CSA No.43 consists of the unincorporated area around the city of Carmel, and applicants are required to be residents of the area.

Interested residents of the area should contact the office of Strasser Kauffman at 1200 Aguajito Road, Monterey, or call 649-6515.

Fire department conducting drive for food, toys

THE CARMEL Fire Department is conducting a drive to raise food and toys for needy families on the peninsula this Christmas.

The drive will begin Friday, Nov. 27 and will continue until Christmas Eve. The fire department will be accepting donations in the form of canned or non-perishable foods, workable toys, money or other appropriate gifts. The items will be distributed by the Salvation Army.

Donations can be dropped off daily from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Carmel Fire Station on Sixth Avenue between San Carlos and Mission.

For further information contact Mitch Kastros at 624-1718.

Fun with founders

THE FOUNDERS of the Carmel Mission Inn Hotel celebrated their 20th anniversary by inviting founders of other Monterey Peninsula businesses that old (or older) to join them at dinner at the hotel.

Mrs. Hugh Chatham, Sr., wife of the late Mr. Chatham, who founded the inn in May 1967, came with Clare Ellen Adams of San Francisco and Monsignor Eamon MacMahon (who gave the invocation), who both attended at the groundbreaking ceremony.

Son, Robert B. Chatham, president of Chatmar, Inc., said in his welcome message that his father was shocked at hotels in his travels with his wife and children and wished for a hotel that would welcome children and allow the family dog to stay with them — thus he founded his own hotel.

"Carmel Mission Inn celebrates its 20th anniversary by honoring you," Rob continued. "The founders and operators of local businesses that have been here 20 years or more. Your long-standing contributions to the Montrey Peninsula community is a large part of what makes this area special. Thank you, founders."

Plaques were received with pride by 50 businesses on the founders list with more than one-half located in Carmel. There are far too many to include here but Derek G. Rayne has been in business on Ocean Avenue for 44 years and the Del Mar French Laundry in Monterey for 55 years.

Participating in the evening were the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce (with president David Armanasco serving as master of ceremonies), Carmel Business Association, Carmel Valley Business Association and the chambers of Pacific Grove, Seaside and Marina.

Texas humorist, Sen. Bob Murphey of Nacogdoches (a close friend of President Lyndon Johnson), made his first visit to this area as guest speaker. He started out by saying, "Laughter is good medicine" and he drawled out a Texas-sized dose.

Having spoken from Kennedy Center in D.C. to the Grand Ol' Opry and throughout the Midwest, he brought up the subject of "speakers circuit food" he had been served — mostly peas and chicken. "I hope you never have a crop failure, but if you do, I hope it is those little green peas that I must have eaten 12 gondola loads of."

Not exactly 29 (although he wouldn't reveal his age), he did say that he has reached the age when his dreams are "reruns." Other subjects were football, oil and gas failures in Texas, marriage, and men and women. On men: "a successful man is one who makes more money than his wife can spend and a successful woman is a woman who finds a man like that."

On work, which he realizes is necessary for those who own their own businesses, he said, "You must get out there and work. Even a mosquito doesn't get a slap on the back 'til he starts to work." His final wisdom was: "The richest man in the world is...the man who's got the most money."

I'm sure the plaques were proudly carried out the door by more relaxed and healthier owners. Rob Chatham's parting words were, "Perhaps we will do this again in 20 years."

THE LION roared into the 1927 Raffles Hotel at the Monterey Sheraton on Nov. 14th, but last weekend it was The Roaring Twenties when the Raffles magically became The Cotton Club.

Each time (this is the third go-round), more backdrops and props are added to create the illusion of the era so highly romanticized in our minds. "A bootleg buffet dinner" was set up on the mezzanine in front of a crumbling brick tenement wall, while in the center (next to the garbage can and down-and-out-bum), the "Cotton Club" marquee beckoned.

Costumes are a necessary part of nostalgia and the flood of gunmolls and gangsters added living atmosphere to the golden bathtub-gin setting. The men in black-striped suits, black hats with white headbands were ominous and flapper fringe was jiggling everywhere one looked.

Entertainment began when the Sheraton's own Nightlights stepped onstage. These singers (who work on the Sheraton staff), are led by Vince Grimes and they are no slouches in the talent department. Hannah McMillen belted out some haunting blues and was joined by Phyllis Lewis, Donna Hudson and Debbie Martin to the great pleasure of the "guys-and-dolls."

Later, every hour until the witching hour, a different band played in the speakeasy for frenetic dancing. All was planned and directed by Maureen Moriarty and Bob Mikolitch of the Sheraton staff, with co-sponsors KWAV, Coasting and KMST-TV — with newscaster Jim Wieder serving as master of ceremonies. The $10 admission went to the Monterey Rape Crisis Center.

The MRCC has offered support and counseling services to women and men on a 24-hour-a-day hotline for more than 13 years. A small paid staff (Clare Mounteer is executive director), and a staff of dedicated volunteers go to emergency hospital rooms, the police station, or whatever needed to assist the victims and to help these survivors put their lives back together again. They provide an educational program for 12,000 adults and school children each year. It is important that children understand their rights. With a higher than national average number of rapes reported here each year, this

THE DEREK Raynes (seated), were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Fergusson, who own Adam Fox Inc., all from Carmel, at Founders Dinner.

ENTRE NOUS

LEANN HUNLEY (the luscious beauty who stars in Dynasty), came out very well in the recent celebrity tennis matches. Our own luscious Maureen Moriarty taught Leann how to play back in Montana. Re: The Lindsey Wilder Celebrity Tennis Tournament — there was a mix-up on the intentions of the winner of the Toyota Tercel. Someone else had said, "If I win, I will give the car to the Wilder family," not the actual winners Shelley and Norman Glaser. What they said was, "If we win, we will give the car to the Congregation Beth Israel." Which is what they did. Sorry about the mix-up, but at the celebrity raffle, the announcer came forth with the Wilder news instead of the CBI news...Soon after "An Evening at the Raffles in Singapore," we had the luxury of "An Evening in Budapest" at the beautiful Covey Restaurant at Quail Lodge. Also luxuriating in an elegant evening of Mozart music and fine Hungarian cuisine prepared by executive chef Bob Williamson were the William Durneys, the Dr. Wedlakes and the Bill Stahls. These dining experiences

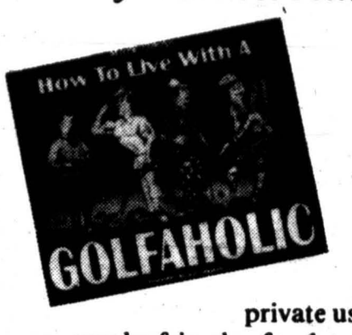
HOW TO LIVE WITH A GOLFAHOLIC

By Carmel Author Mark Oman



WARNING!

The following excerpt from the new book HOW TO LIVE WITH A GOLFAHOLIC is intended solely for the private use of those who suspect they may be friends of, related to, or — heaven forbid — married to a golfaholic. In the weeks ahead you'll learn the whole sordid story; how to survive the "traps and hazards" of life with a golf lover.

A Test for positive identification

WE CAN'T beat around the bush any longer. At some point you have to answer the hard questions about that special golfer in your life.

For many of you this is going to be painful. But you know you have to do it. If it makes it any easier, take this test in the privacy of your bedroom. Close the door. Only you will know the results.

Just try to answer the following questions as honestly as you can. There are no right or wrong answers. Only truths you may not have wished to accept.

The Front 9

1. Does someone near and dear to you think about golf all the time? At the breakfast table does he say, "Please pass the putter?"

☐ YES ☐ NO

2. Is there a divot in the carpet in front of the television in the den or family room?

☐ YES ☐ NO

3. Does that special someone in your life put his name, telephone, and company on a golf ball instead of a business card?

☐ YES ☐ NO

4. Does your spouse often engage in unconscious repetitious acts like wiggling his feet, waggling his rear and hitching up his pants?

☐ YES ☐ NO

5. Does he practice his grip, stance, or swing naked in the bathroom, outside church, on airplanes, or in other public places?

☐ YES ☐ NO

6. Have you ever gone shopping and turned around to find him standing in front of a full-length mirror taking a full swing at a ball that isn't there with a club that isn't there?

☐ YES ☐ NO

7. Has the love of your life turned into a golfing mailman? In other words, neither rain, nor snow, nor dark of night keep him from his appointed rounds?

☐ YES ☐ NO

8. Does his nose twitch when he gets within 1,760 yards of a golf course? (To any normal person that's one mile. To a golfaholic, it's 1,760 yards to the first tee!)

☐ YES ☐ NO

9. Does his passionate pursuit of the game know no bounds...like a lot of his shots?

☐ YES ☐ NO

Save your answers and next week we'll show you how to score. Right after we tackle the dreaded Back Nine!

BUSINESS BEAT

By Nancy Hills

MARSHA BLAKE relaxes in her newly opened bookstore, Blake's Bookshop in The Crossroads, located on Lobos Lane and in The Crossroads Mall. Blake's Bookshop offers books in all categories and a homelike atmosphere, Blake said.

Reading room

MARSHA BLAKE has done something that many dream of trying.

She opened her own bookstore.

It's a rare inveterate reader that doesn't wander around a bookstore and think how nice it would be to have one of his or her own, how it would look and what atmosphere it would foster.

For Blake, Blake's Bookshop in The Crossroads, with entrances on the Mall and Lobos Lane, is the fulfillment of her musings and just plain old hard work.

"This is something I wanted to do for a long time. Ever since I worked in a privately owned bookstore, I knew this is what I wanted," she said.

Blake's Bookshop, she states, has "Old World charm and ambiance" and "features a quaint, comfortable atmosphere that encourages the customer to browse or sit and relax in a quiet reading area, complete with marble fireplace."

The living room area — featuring a couch, window seat and burning fireplace — is just a part of her full-line bookstore that Blake said is overseen by a "very knowledgeable staff which tries to make the atmosphere friendly and comfortable."

Karen Lyon, who is well known to many book buyers in the area, is part of that compete staff, she added.

Special orders and customer requests will receive "priority attention" Blake said.

The "all-category" inventory includes "large sections of cookbooks, books on art and photography, as well as a designated section of children's books," she said.

In addition to books, the store carries both classical and New Age tapes — any of which will be played upon request, Blake said, and all kinds of calendars.

For children, that invisible breed here in Carmel, Blake's Bookshop will be staging puppet shows on Saturdays.

If you've forgotten what children look like, you might go down and take a peek. They're easy to spot. They are the short and are supposed to act immature.

THURSDAY NIGHTS

The Carmel Business Association has been hard at work organizing Thursday-evening shopping in downtown Carmel for residents and visitors alike.

For the three December Thursdays preceding Christmas, Dec. 3, 10 and 17, about 130 shops will be open until 8 p.m. to allow people who work during the day time to find Christmas gifts in Carmel.

The first night, Dec. 3, is also the tree-lighting ceremony night outside of Carmel Plaza and when the awards for the best decorations in commercial areas of Carmel will be given out.

Come and shop in town and support your local merchants.

ICE CREAM CAPER

After the whoop-tee-do about no ice cream in Carmel — a fallacy from the git-go — you'd think that anything to do with the frozen dessert would be a big hit. But business is business and profits don't care about human fantasy.

Super Sundae Matinee on the corner of Dolores and Eighth is already closed and up for sale.

The ice cream parlor sold ice cream and toppings by the weight. The customer would fix their own ice cream treat — just as they wanted it.

As the personalized confection was consumed, the customer could watch one of six videos on a monitor attached to the table.

All a very good idea according to those who frequented the establishment.

In the back of the parlor was a video store where customers could rent a variety of videos.

But it takes a lot of ice cream to support a business here and while a lot of work went into the parlor, it apparently just couldn't expand its customer base.

BITS AND PIECES

Armand and Carmela Zenopian, owners of Jewels of Carmel, are planning to open another business.

This time its porcelain gifts — such as Limoge, Belleck, Dresden, Kaiser, Hereno, and Meissen porcelain — right around the corner in the former location of the Carmel Cutlery on Lincoln. The Cutlery Shop vacated the space months ago and moved to a Dolores Street location.

• Soon I'll have to start covering the residential area in Biz Beat. There were four spec homes on the Carmel Planning Commission agenda Nov. 18. All were approved because they met the code.

• Joan and Jerry Winters, who have owned many a Carmel business, applied for a "grocery store" permit in a vacant space in Lobos Lodge on Ocean.

The planning commission granted the permit but may have to re-evaluate their decison. In fact, the commission has decided to rehear the permit in the near future.

The space, listed as 600 square feet on the application, turned out to be only a little more than 200 square feet, which could not possibly hold all the merchandise listed by the Winters.

• Business licenses are going through a new process in Carmel. The Carmel Business License and Code Review board process, unloved by one and all, was abandoned about a year and a half ago. Under that system, business licenses were reviewed by a board that could best be characterized as a junior planning commission.

After the board disbanded, a committee comprised of city staff reviewed incoming licenses to determine which had to get a permit from the planning commission.

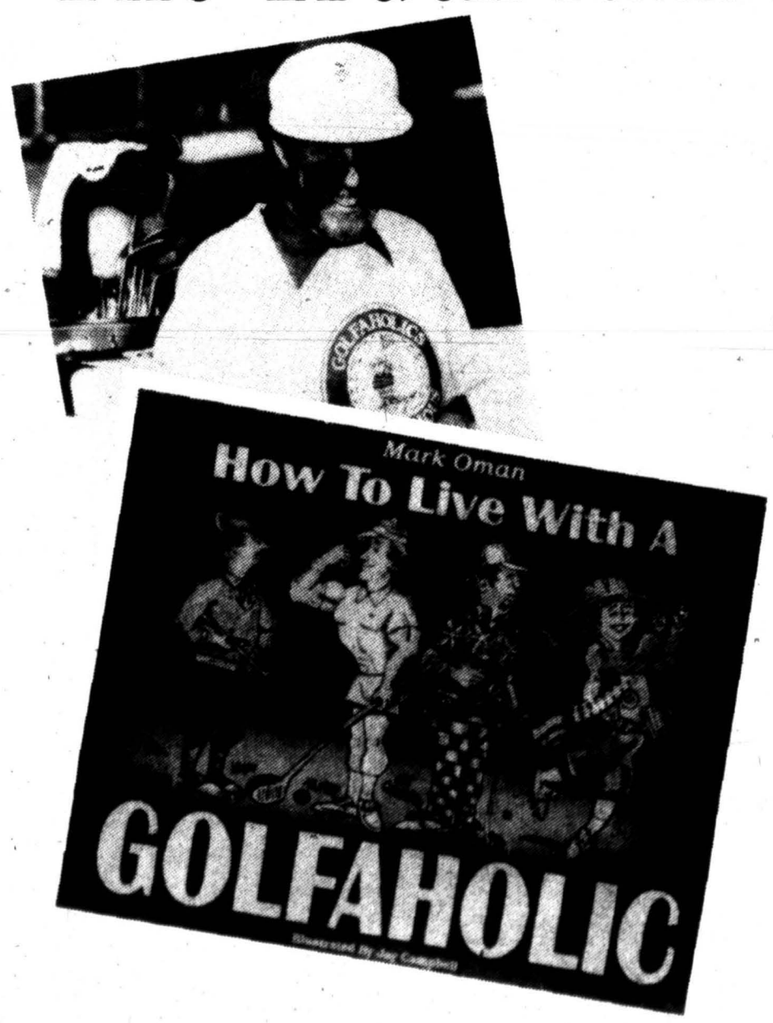
The Truth Doctors Won't Tell You About Golf



How To Live With A Golfaholic bravely lays bare the shocking truth you always suspected about a golf lover's lust for the links.

Meet Mark Oman, the man who dares to expose the shocking depravity of this pitiful sub-class of unfortunates. The writing is gruesome, the illustrations are graphic, but only brutal honesty will help in understanding the plight of the afflicted who may in fact be a neighbor, a friend or even a member of your own family.

Mark Oman will be dispensing advice and autographs for those of you with the need to understand the addiction of the Golfaholic. He can't promise a cure — only compassion, sympathy and the survival handbook for dealing with this dread affliction — "How to Live With a Golfaholic."

JESSICA'S has GIFT IDEAS galore! Wonderful Sweaters in many designs and colors, Holiday Blouses, coordinated Sportswear, Scarves & Jewelry. Great SALE rack, too! Open 10-5, Mon.-Sat.

Once again, the process has changed, but it's an internal one and not something that will be too noticeable by the applicants.

Now, the license is issued and money taken by the planning department, which consolidates the application time.

• The Surftides Inn on the corner of Mission Street and Fifth Avenue has been sold to a Hitoshi Kono, which is interesting because the former owners, a conglomerate, recently received a use permit from the planning commission to demolish the motel and rebuild a residential care facility on the lot — with more rooms than the inn currently holds.

Are the new owners planning to do the same? Don't know yet.

• The Carmel Planning Commission is putting together a new sign ordinance that will be coming back to the commission on Dec. 9. After the commission approves the final draft, it will go to the city council for review.

The ordinance redefines some nebulous areas in the ordinance and adds a couple of new areas.

One addition expands the commission's area of authority over interior signs. Currently, the commission can review any interior sign over 160 square feet and within 15 feet of a window.

The new ordinance would expand that to any permanent sign that can be seen from the exterior and is over 144 square feet.

• Don Bowen of Carmel Business Sales is happy to announce he has added a new salesperson to the ever-growing staff.

Pat Gallagher is the newest member of the business sales community.

"We feel very proud to have Pat join us. He has had extensive experience in commercial real estate and commercial leasing with Coldwell Banker, Cushman Wakefield and Grubb & Ellis in Los Angeles," Bowen said.

According to his resume, he also was a Green Beret which means he has had hand-to-hand combat training. In my opinion, that's a must for any business sales position.

THE NEWEST BAR AND GRILL

Charles Flaherty Swanston, owner Flaherty's Seafood Bar & Grill and the Oyster Bar, is looking toward an early December opening of the newest addition to his restaurant family — Flaherty's in the Plaza Bar & Grill located in the lower level of the Carmel Plaza.

Flaherty's in the Plaza will NOT, I repeat, not replace Flaherty's Seafood Bar and Grill or the Oyster Bar on Sixth Avenue between San Carlos and Dolores streets. Both those restaurants will continue with business as usual.

Flaherty's in the Plaza is not even going to be a "seafood place," according to Swanston.

The new enterprise is "a bar and grill with a full bar and an outdoor patio," Swanston said, and with an all a la carte menu that will feature "California Cuisine."

California Cuisine, Swanston said, consists of dishes that utilize foods locally grown and fresh from the area. They are prepared with an eye toward visual appeal as well as their enticement for the taste buds.

A peek into the ongoing remodel of the former Harbinger restaurant space shows a cheery looking atmosphere with full booths and a full bar.

More to come when it's done.

A GOOD SOLE

The streets of Carmel and trails of Carmel Valley may be easy on the eye but are murder on the other end — the feet. Quaint and rumply sidewalks look great but can kill off one's favorite pair of shoes faster than you can say "turn my ankle."

Abide Shoe Repair in The Mall of The Crossroads shopping center has everything it takes to fix whatever the world dishes out to your leather goods, according to part-owner Steven Joh. "Leather things" includes luggage and purses which occasionally need to be doctored, too.

"We're a complete and full line shoe repair store and have everything from dyes to laces," he said.

Of course, if your shoe isn't leather, that's OK. If it's a shoe, they can fix it, Joh said.

Abide is the third shoe repair shop for Steven Joh's father, Choon Joh, who has been working in shoe repair for about 20 years, Steven Joh said. He added that he has worked with his father for many years; they currently own another shop in Scott's Valley. Father Choon is now the president of the Northern California Shoe Repair Association.

"We like challenges and offer probably the top line in experience," Joh said.

If you're in a hurry, there's always one da·· service, he said.

SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS TREE LIGHTING CEREMONY

Tuesday, Dec. 1 from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m., Monterey Plaza Hotel, Security Pacific National Bank, the Monterey Jaycees, KOCN radio, and the Family Resource Center are sponsoring a Tree Lighting Ceremony at the Monterey Plaza Hotel. The Tree Lighting Ceremony will be the kick-off for the month-long toy drive to benefit the children of the Family Resource Center in Monterey County.

The festivities will include live entertainment with Jake Stock and the Abalone Stompers, and the Santa Catalina Choir singing Christmas carols. Holiday refreshments will be served, and Santa Claus will be among special guests attending. Local dignitaries will also join in the celebration, including mayors: Robert Franco of Del Ray Oaks, Morris Fisher of Pacific Grove, Lancelot McClair of Seaside, and George Takahashi of Marina. Supervisor Sam Karas will also be among the honored guests.

The Toy Drive will continue until Dec. 21. Donated toys may be dropped off at any Security Pacific National Bank, KOCN Radio in the American Tin Cannery, and the Monterey Plaza Hotel located on 400 Cannery Row. A donation of a new toy for children, infant through 15 years old, unwrapped, may be left at any of the donation points.

The Family Resource Center of Monterey County is a United Way agency, which offers comprehensive child abuse prevention with emergency and planned child care services approximately 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. During the month of December, 150 children will receive aid from the Family Resource Center.

The children of the Family Resource Center will receive their presents on Dec. 22. The gifts will be distributed by Santa Claus at the Monterey Plaza Hotel from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

COLLEGE OF LAW SETS OPEN FORUM

Monterey College of Law will hold an Open Forum for people interested in attending law school. The forum will be held at the college at 498 Pearl St., Monterey, on Wednesday Dec. 2, at 6:30 p.m. Reservations are required and may be made by phoning 373-3301.

Admissions officer, Kip Hudson, and law students will describe the law college program of study, admission requirements, and job opportunities. Information will be given on the Law School Admission Test which will be given Feb. 20, 1988.

Monterey College of Law is a community law school, accredited in 1980 by the Committee of Bar Examiners of the State Bar of California. Classes are held in the evening and most students are over 30 years old and work full time.

LAST YEAR'S Hospice Tree of Life atop the Monterey Sheraton glowed with lights representing more than 2,000 loved ones honored by community members. The event brought Hospice about $31,000.

HOSPICE TREE OF LIFE HONORS LOVED ONES

The second annual Hospice Tree of Life tree lighting ceremony will take place on Monday, Nov. 30, at 5 p.m., at Portola Plaza in Monterey. Rep. Leon Panetta, honorary chairman for the event, will light the tree. Entertainment will be provided by the Santa Catalina Upper School Chorus, Brian Vaughn, director.

Community members may donate lights in honor of or in memory of their loved ones at $10 per light. Names are entered in the Tree of Life memory book, which remains on display throughout the holiday season, in the lobby of the Sheraton Hotel.

"The lights shining on last year's Hospice Tree of Life were a brilliant display of love and community support," says Robert Brower, Hospice board chairman. Proceeds will again go to the Hospice Patient Care Fund, according to Brower.

The tree, situated atop the Sheraton, honored more than 2,000 people last year and brought Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula about $31,000.

Sponsors for the event include Citicorp Savings, the Sheraton Hotel and KMST-TV.

Donation envelopes may be obtained from event sponsors, most Monterey Peninsula banks and savings and loans, local supermarkets, or by calling the Hospice development office at 372-6565.

CARMEL STUDENTS ATTENDING CHICO STATE HONORED

Students at California State University, Chico, who take a minimum of 12 units of courses for letter grade credit and maintain a 3.5 grade point average (4.0 is a straight A average), are singled out each semester for the Deans' Honor list based on the semester grade.

Among those cited for this high scholastic achievement for Spring semester 1987, are:

Raymond A. Burket, a senior computer engineering major from Pebble Beach, Steve M. Read, sophomore from Carmel.

Among those graduating last May from California State University, Chico are: Christy J. Pappas, of Carmel who received a bachelor's degree in recreation administration.

SANTA CATALINA STUDENTS IN HONORS ORCHESTRA

Three students from Santa Catalina School performed in a concert on Nov. 21 in Stockton given by the California Orchestra Directors Association/National String Orchestra Association Honor Orchestra. The students were freshman Tina Park, a violinist from Monterey; sophomore Kismet Thompson, a cellist from Carmel; and senior Angie Kim, a violinist from Santa Clara.

DEBORAH GREEN OF CARMEL ENTERS BARNARD COLLEGE

Deborah Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Green of Carmel, has entered Barnard College in New York City.

Green is one of 507 freshmen women in the Class of 1991 from 37 states and 34 foreign countries.

Barnard is the undergraduate college for women affiliated with Columbia University. It has an enrollment of approximately 2,200 students.

CARMEL AREA ATHLETES SCORE HIGH

Nicole Dauphine, 14, a resident of Carmel and sophomore at Robert Louis Stevenson School, won first place in the girls' varsity Mission Trail Athletic League (MTAL) cross-country championships held at Toro Park, Nov. 4.

More than 120 high school students from Carmel, Pacific Grove, Stevenson, Santa Catalina, York, King City, Alisal, Notre Dame and other local high schools participated in the annual championship meet. Robert Louis Stevenson School won the boy's varsity team championship and the junior varsity championship. King City won the girls' varsity team championship.

Other students from Carmel who performed well at the event included Rob Dinapoli (Carmel High), third place, boys varsity; Krista Gustafson (Carmel High), sixth place, girls varsity; Marc Dauphine (Stevenson), 13th place, boys' varsity; David Kingsley (Carmel High), 14th place, boys' varsity; Charmy Hacker (Carmel High), 15th place, girls varsity; Carolyn Burleigh (Carmel High), 26th place, girls varsity; and Chris Karachale, 6th place, boys' junior varsity.

Nicole and Marc Dauphine will travel to Crystal Springs with the Stevenson boys varsity team on Nov. 21 for the Central Coast Section Cross Country Championships (CCS).

SALVATION ARMY NEEDS HOLIDAY BELL—RINGERS

A familiar sight during the holidays are Salvation Army bell-ringers next to their red kettles. Every penny dropped into the kettles goes to help a family in need in the community. But with every kettle, there is also a dedicated community volunteer. The Salvation Army is seeking bell-ringers this season. If you would like to volunteer your time, please call the Corps Community Center at 899-4911.

SPIRIT OF SPEECH GROUP MEETS TWICE MONTHLY

Getting their Quota

LOCAL YOUTH TO TOUR IN UP WITH PEOPLE

Brenda June La'Mica of Carmel has just completed six intensive weeks of rehearsals, workshops and seminars in Tucson, Ariz. in preparation for a year-long tour in Up With People, the international educational and cultural program.

La'Mica, age 22, attended San Jose State and Mission College and is the daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Francis J. La'Mica.

Selected from more than 8,000 applicants, La'Mica is one of 110 young men and women representing 25 countries in Up With People's Cast A, which will spend the next year traveling an estimated 32,000 miles to some 80 cities in North America and Europe.

For the next three months Cast A will travel throughout the Midwestern United States, touring 12 states before they break for the Holidays.

Cast A reconvenes in January and will then travel throughout the Southwestern states until they depart for Scandinavia in April. They will wind up their year touring Denmark, Sweden, Norway and Finland.

During the course of the year Cast A will perform Up With People's all-new 1987/88 show, "Time for the Music," have the opportunity of living with approximately 80 different host families, and meet a wide range of people in each community where they will also participate in public service activities.

It is Up With People's hope that these young people and the thousands of people they meet each year gain an increased appreciation for others, develop grassroot friendships and come to share a belief in the potential of humanity, thus contributing to a more peaceful world.

SHAKE ROOFS need not burn or decay.

Fire officials are correct when they say wood shake or shingle roofs can be a fire hazard. It is proven that 80% of the natural oils in a shake or shingle roof leach out in five years. Shakes become like kindling wood, easily set afire as well as supporting fungus and insects. Add several years worth of leaf and pine needle accumulation and the roof is extremely susceptible to sparks from the chimney — the number one cause of roof fires. The roofs are then accidents waiting to happen as was seen with the Pebble Beach tragedy.

Much of the risk of roof fires can be minimized by preventative action. Wood roofs should be cleaned of leaves and pine needles on a regular basis. Fire retardents can be applied to existing wood roofs. One such fire retardant has been used successfully in California for over 40 years. Flame-X has been used on 35,000 homes, the equivalent of 70,000,000 square feet and has had no known roof fires. Flame-X has been extensively tested by licensed testing laboratories and has stood the test of time, both in exposure tests and actual hill brush fires. Shake Savers, Inc., headquartered in Cleveland, Ohio, has a complete dealer network in California to service the market. Shake Savers, Inc. offers a free roof analysis to any homeowner who would be interested. The Shake Savers dealers will supply product literature, test data as well as explain their coating procedures.

Shake and shingle roofs can be protected from fire, fungus and insects. If you would like additional information and the dealer nearest you, call the Shake Savers home office at 1-800-24SHAKE or write to:

FOR THESE CHAOTIC TIMES, A SOLID, LONG TERM INVESTMENT VEHICLE.

With most economic indicators suggesting that the sky is falling, it might be prudent to seek shelter in a Volvo 760 GLE.

Like all Volvos, the 760 is built to hold together over the long term. Which means that you probably won't have to return to the money market for a new car loan any time soon.

And with luxurious interior appointments rivaling those of cars costing thousands more, the Volvo 760 is uniquely qualified to transport you through the tough times ahead in total comfort. Both fiscal and physical.

So, if you're in the market for a long term investment vehicle, consider the Volvo 760 GLE. A car that can protect you from the bears by simply outliving them.

MONTEREY COUNTY FILM COMMISSION FORMED

Fifteen county residents have been appointed to the newly formed Monterey County Film Commission by the board of supervisors.

The commission, which had its initial meeting Oct. 29 at the Highlands Inn, was charged by Supervisors Sam Karas and Mark del Piero with the responsibility of fostering the economic development of the film industry in Monterey County.

Also meeting with the commissioners and signaling their support of the commission's efforts were Mikel Pippi, new executive director of the Monterey Film Festival and representatives of state Sen. Henry Mello and state Assemblyman Sam Farr.

Commission members are: True Boardman, Pebble Beach; Teresa Del Piero, Carmel; Robert Faramand, Salinas; Lei Fernandez, Marina; Phillip Glau, San Ardo; Jean Grace, Carmel; Moss Hall, Pebble Beach; Sam Harrison, Carmel; Richard Kuhn, Salinas; Donna Marek, Pebble Beach; Lance McClair, Seaside; David McIntyre, Carmel; Jana O'Brien, Salinas; Al Sammut, Salinas; Craig Smith, Monterey; and the mayor of a South County city to be named.

The commission is expected to hire an executive director by Jan. 1, 1988. It will be headquartered at 2 Portola Plaza, Monterey and will share space with the Monterey Film Festival.

The initial commission budget of $21,000 will be provided by the county with additional funding expected to be obtained from the 12 cities in the county. The commission will operate as a public-private partnership.

Wall volunteers

DICK HARDIN, vice president of the Carmel-by-the-Sea Kiwanis Club (left), assists visitors to the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Wall replica that made a recent visit to the Custom House Plaza in Monterey. Carmel Kiwanians Gary Duffel, Ken Walker, Gary Ritter, Ed Seville, Don Fuselier, and George Brehmer also helped visitors during the wall's brief stay.

Music lover

BRENDA JUNE La'Mica of Carmel recently completed six weeks of intensive rehearsals, workshops and seminars in preparation for a year-long tour in the musical group, Up With People. She is one of 110 men and women in the group's Cast A.

OUTSTANDING WOMEN NOMINATION FORMS NOW AVAILABLE

The Monterey County Commission on the Status of Women is seeking nominations for its Ten Outstanding Women awards to be presented during Women's History Month in March 1988.

The commission wishes to recognize and honor Monterey County women who have made significant contributions to the improvement of life for others. The outstanding women will be selected on the basis of their activism, either in or out of the mainstream.

The commission is particularly interested in recognizing women who may have been honored previously only through their club or professional memberships, or who have not been recognized at all because they are not affiliated with a specific group or organization.

Nomination forms for the 1988 Outstanding Women Awards are available at all libraries in Monterey County, at the Hartnell and Monterey Peninsula College libraries, at the Department of Social Services in Salinas, at all supervisor's offices, and at the commission's office. Nominations forms are available in both English and Spanish.

Deadline for submission of nominations is Dec. 31, 1987.

For information, please contact the Commission on the Status of Women at 755-4499.

We are now well into our eighth year of service to the senior citizens on the Monterey Peninsula. It has been, and will continue to be our sincere goal to improve the quality of care for our older generation and create a loving family atmosphere for this final chapter of transition. Perhaps, pave the road in a positive way for all of us, as we wander down the path to our Golden Years, now knowing what is at the end of this journey we will call the Book of Life.

Special service set for Nov. 26

Walk into the local Christian Science church this Thursday morning Nov. 26 at 10, and you're likely to hear gratefull accounts, thoughtfully shared, of modern-day Christian healing.

Visitors - who are welcome to join the local congregation at this special community Thanksgiving Service - will also discover that, to Christian Scientists, gratitude to God is best expressed in one's heart and life. And that spiritual healing is considered to be a natural part of God's blessings.

Each year, the members of First Church of Christian Scientist at Monte Verde and Sixth offer a mid-week service of Thanksgiving to the community. Readings from the Bible and the textbook of Christian Science, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by church founder Mary Baker Eddy, make up one portion of the service. The spontaneous sharing of accounts of healing and gratitude to God from the Christian Science congregation make up the other. The Lord's Prayer, silent prayer and hymns of praise are also an important part of this worship service.

Care for children too young to attend will be available. The community is invited to join with the local members of the Christian Science church at this special service in giving thanks to God.

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

A Thanksgiving Poem

Each year when it comes Thanksgiving
I try to think of another way
To give a worthy "Thank You"
on this, America's special day

What is an adequate thank you
For a blossom, a moonbeam, the dew
A thought, a feeling
That becomes a part of You?

And what about our hopes and dreams
A longed-for wish come true?
And those ever-precious intangibles
Like love and caring too?

Lord, I've found a way to say "thank you"
For things so diverse and apart
I'll gather them all together
As I offer up my heart

Religious classes now offered

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

Do house calls by doctors have a place in today's high-tech medical care world? According to Dr. John R. Burton of the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, it's more desirable than ever for physicians to visit older patients in their homes because it enabled the doctor to form a better relationship with the patient and also to assess the home environment of the patient in relation to health care. Dr. Burton said house calls also help many older people to continue living independently because they don't have to rely on others to bring them to the doctors' offices.

PASSING NOTES

By Ticien Carlson

A Day at CHS

HAVE YOU ever wondered what it's like at CHS? Is it so different from what your high school experience was like? Let me take you through a typical day at CHS.

Sometime between 6 and 7 a.m. you roll out of bed and stumble to the shower. Then you decide what you are wearing, grab some food, and hope your car starts. How long you can sleep in the mornings depends on the speed with which you can do the above.

7.40 a.m. — You drive around the parking lot twice but there is no space so you have to park off campus.

7:45 a.m. — The first bell rings as you are sprinting towards campus from your car.

7:50 a.m. — First period begins as you (and four other people) slide into your seats, panting.

8:45 a.m. — First period ends. Because you didn't have time earlier, you must lug all of your books to your locker, get organized and get to your next class...all in 5 minutes.

9:45 a.m. — It's "break." You have 20 mintues to visit with your friends (someone is inevitably having some sort of crisis), wait in a seemingly endless line to buy a donut or bagel, and get to your third period class.

11 a.m. — You are starving again by now but you have to make it through fourth period first.

12 noon — It's lunchtime! Cars stream out of the parking lot in all directions. Lunch becomes a race against the clock to get your food and consume it before 12:35. Better not be late!

1:30 p.m. — You find yourself wandering to your last class of the day.

2:30 p.m. — You are free. Now it's time to go to athletic practice, to work, or to do your homework. See you tomorrow!

I suppose that high school is a good preparation for life. Either you can trudge through your days as I have outlined or you can be challenged by each new class daily. The experience is the same, the trick is what you make of it.

If you have any questions, comments, or story ideas please write to: Passing Notes, c/o Carmel High, P.O. Box 222780, Carmel, CA 93922.

SPCA has volunteer opportunities

Volunteers are needed on an ongoing basis in a number of ways at the Monterey County SPCA. Among the volunteer jobs open at the facility are adoption counselors; educational guides; benefit shop representatives; pet therapists and wildlife, clinic and clerical assistants.

The last orientation session of 1987 will take place 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 12 in the Humane Education Building at the SPCA, located at 1002 Highway 68 aross from the Laguna Seca Recreation Area entrance.

To volunteer, call the Monterey County SPCA to register for the orientation session. From the Monterey area, call 373-2631. From the Salinas area, call 422-4721. Lunch will be provided.

SPCA open limited hours Nov. 26

The Monterey County SPCA/Humane Society will be closed Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, Nov. 26 except to those who are looking for their lost pet.

There will be no adoptions or visiting the shelter Nov. 26. Calls will be accepted for emergencies, however. Anyone needing emergency assistance that day should call 646-5534.

The George Whittell Wildlife Center will also be accepting injured wildlife and can be reached by calling the same emergency number.

Those looking for a stray pet can visit the shelter between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. The shelter is located across from Laguna Seca Recreation Area on Highway 68. Regular operating hours will resume Nov. 27.

Tax aide volunteers sought

Volunteer tax aide counselors are needed, according to the American Association of Retired Persons' Tax Aide Program. They are needed to work from Feb. 1 through April 15, 1988, to help older taxpayers prepare their federal and state income tax returns.

Individuals with aptitude for tax work, experience in filing their own returns and good communication skills are urged to sign up.

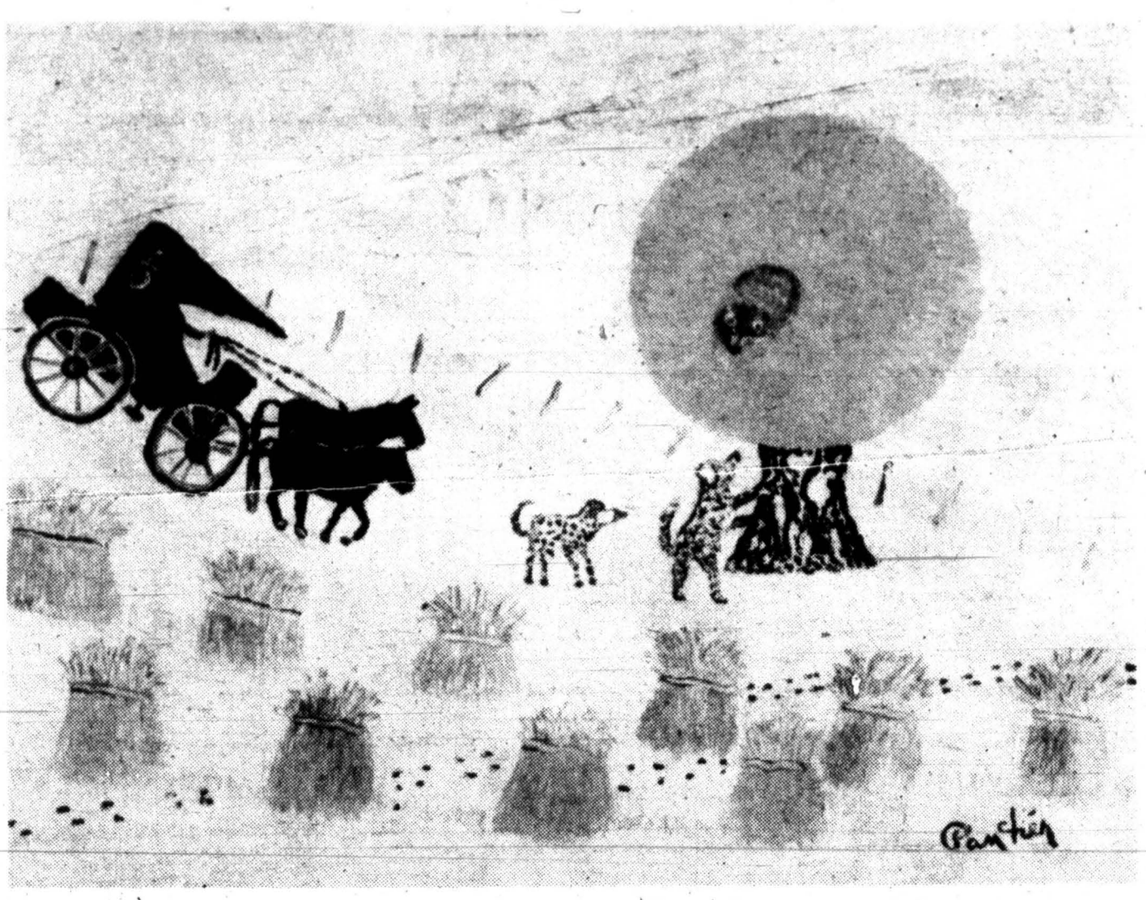
Volunteer counselors are trained in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service and the Franchise Tax Board. Interested persons should call 647-8190.

Seniors offered free health checks

Free health check-ups for older adults are offered by the Senior Citizen and Nursing Services (SCANS) program of the Monterey County Health Department. Persons over age 55 are eligible for this service.

Appointments are required for check-ups. They are offered in Pacific Grove at the Community Center, 515 Junipero; and in Carmel at the Presbyterian Church, Ocean and Junipero.

To make an appointment, call 899-4271.



THIS SNOW SCENE is among the originals by long-time Carmel resident Henry Pancher that are featured in "The Art of Christmas" show. The gallery is on Dolores Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues in Carmel.

THE DAY Before Thanksgiving, a 12-by-16-inch miniature holiday painting by Henry Pancher, is included in "The Art of Christmas" exhibition opening this weekend at the Bill W. Dodge Gallery in Carmel.

Carmel artist's primitives reflect his Tennessee roots

By ANNE PAPINEAU

MORE THAN four decades of living in Carmel may have softened it a bit around the edges, but Henry Pancher's voice retains the distinctive lilt of a Tennessee native. Both his speech and his oil paintings remain true to his roots.

Gesturing toward a 12-by-16 primitive work, he notes, "A lot of my material is unsophisticated. It's country 'cause I'm from the South."

Pancher was born in 1910 on a farm in rural Vanleer, 60 miles from Nashville. But since 1946, when he joined the Kenneth E. Wood Realty Firm on Ocean Avenue, he has lived and worked here. He was hired to replace Wood's partner, Daisy F. Bostick, the author of Carmel at Work and Play.

"I took Daisy's place when she retired. She was a very grand, very worldly, very fine person," he recalls. "They're (Wood and Bostick) both gone now."

Pancher worked 29 years with the real estate firm, which was one of the oldest in the area. He recalls that the offices occupied the ground floor of the Goold Building on Ocean Avenue at San Carlos, now the site of a women's clothing store. Then the firm moved to Sixth Avenue.

It was in 1949, Pancher remembers, that he discovered his penchant for painting.

"Somebody gave me a small set of oils for a present. So I started fiddling around and I became so fascinated with it I couldn't put it down. I was fascinated. I was really cut out to do artwork."

UNTIL HIS retirement from business in 1975, Pancher had to sandwich painting in between his work hours. Today he paints daily in the music room of his Carmel Knolls home. His easel is mounted on a movable TV table, just a few steps from his piano and Wurlitzer electric organ.

The paintings in his home reveal that Pancher's work has evolved through different periods, including abstract. But his preoccupation these days is to capture scenes from his Tennessee mountain youth in the primitive or "naive" style.

"I was advised against taking art classes by a prominent painter in Carmel who said, 'You are a primitive painter always.' "

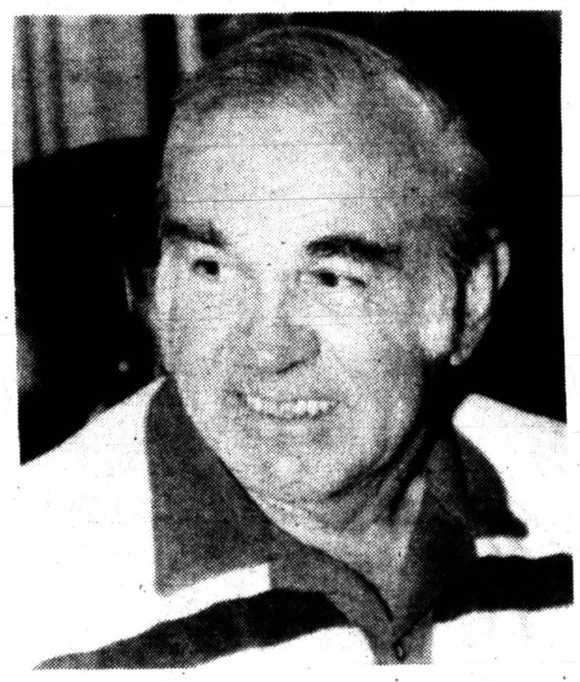
"I stress color, a very vivid color is what I like to use. I use Winsor Newton oils. That's what makes my paintings refract the light when you see them."

Pancher's home is equally colorful — a vivid mix of old and new, Asian and Western. His living room is home to a reclining buddha, a Dorset ram sculpture and a treasured toy dog. The artist convalesced for three months of this year following a hip injury — but his enthusiasm remains infectious.

"My folks were all more or less musicians. My father was a fine old violinist. I've played organ and piano since I was this high."

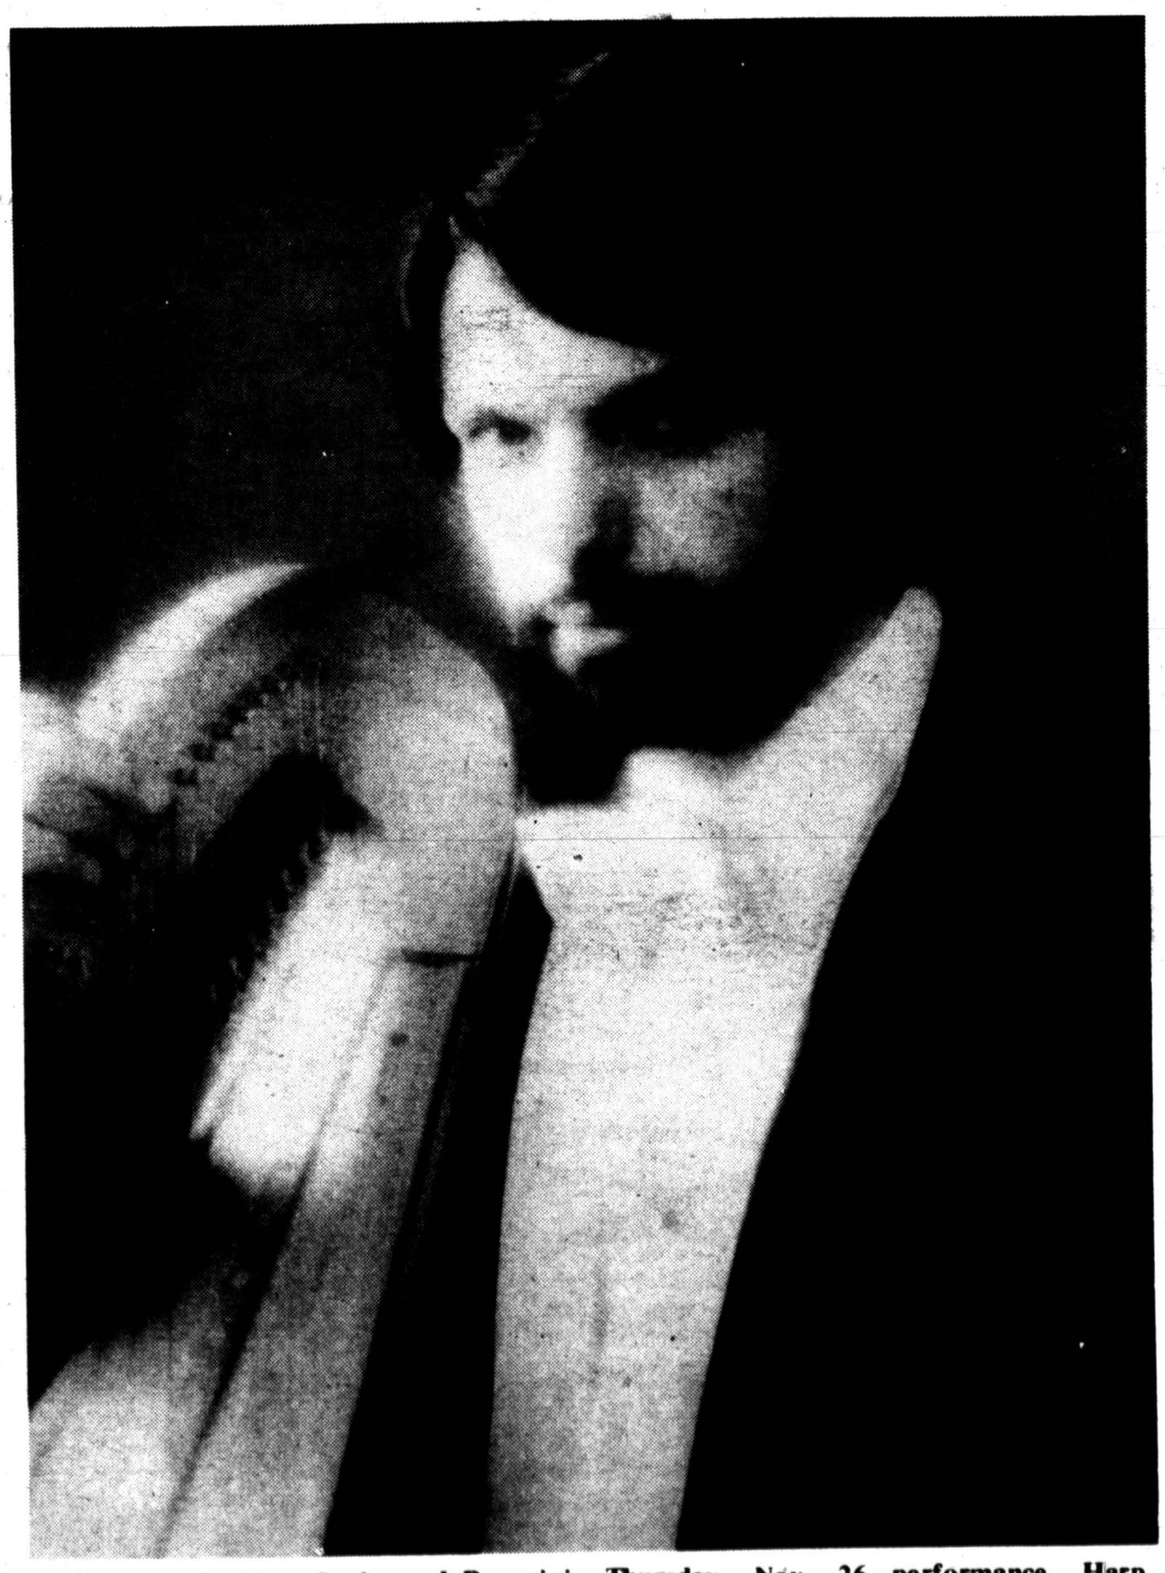
As if on cue, Pancher takes a seat at the Wurlitzer and performs a lively interpretation of "Button Up Your Overcoat."

"These fancy studios I don't care for," he exclaims. "When I work, I work so furiously I almost become ill. You have to be enthused or forget it. About a third of the way through one painting recently I was ready to just start over. But then I just kept working and working. I worked until 11 that night to finish it."



TENNESSEE native Henry Pancher has made his home in Carmel for more than four decades.

Pancher's modern primitives will be included in the first show of miniature holiday paintings at the Bill W. Dodge Gallery in Carmel. The show, titled "The Art of Christmas," opens this weekend at the gallery on Dolores Street near Fifth Avenue.



COMPOSITIONS by Spohr and Paganini will be featured when Dan Levitan appears in recital at Hidden Valley Music Seminars in Carmel Valley. Admission is free to the Thursday, Nov. 26 performance. Harp recitals are also scheduled Friday and Saturday. For additional information, call 659-3115.

Hidden Valley harp classes conclude with recital series

THE SERIES of harp recitals presented by Hidden Valley Music Seminars continues as part of the Ninth Annual McDonald Harp Master Class.

Dan Levitan will include "Fantasie for Harp" by Spohr and "Theme and Variations" by Paganini in a recital at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 26 in Hidden Valley Theatre. Levitan, a graduate of Temple University, is principal harpist of the San Jose and Marin symphony orchestras. A principal harp substitute for major bay area orchestras, Levitan was also a finalist in the Los Angeles Philharmonic's auditions for principal harpist.

Hsin-Yi Chen of Los Angeles, Vanessa Gong of Taiwan and Jung Kwak of Korea will present a recital at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 27 in Hidden Valley Theatre. Chen, a senior at the Los Angeles County High School for the Performing Arts, has been a member of the Mereblum Orchestra and a harp-flute duo player.

Gong and Kwak study in Indiana University's Pre-College Harp Program. They were soloists last summer in the "Focus on Youth" program at the World Harp Congress in Vienna, Austria. Works by Handel, Parish-Albers and Pierne will be included in the Hidden Valley recital.

These players will be invited to join other harp master class participants in a class recital at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 28 in Hidden Valley Theatre. Admission to the Saturday recital is $8. Admission is free to the Thursday and Friday recitals.

The theater is located off Carmel Valley Road near Ford Road in Carmel Valley Village. For additional information, call 659-3115.

THEATER REVIEW

By Joanne Tenenbaum

'Muse of Fire' opens at Cherry Hall

CURRENTLY on stage at Cherry Hall is a modest undertaking, Muse of Fire, 10 scenes from Shakespeare's plays selected and directed by Tommie Bates, who also introduces the scenes from a cozy stage-side setting, replete with flower arrangement, easy chair, reading lamp, and dim lighting that strongly suggests firelight. Bates' own performance as narrator is engaging and direct, but his direction needs work.

The scenes themselves are a mixed bag of celebrated scenes from Shakespeare, and the manner of their presentation is a mixed bag as well. For some scenes, performers take the stage in simple modern dress. For others, the players are costumed, albeit generically (black cloaks, for example, denote both Cleopatra's and Lady MacBeth's royalty).

Bates claims the scenes were chosen at random, and this may be why the scenes do not build to a sense of unity throughout the evening. Although, as Bates points out, the speeches share the theme of deceit, this theme is not enough to marry moments from plays so diverse as Romeo and Juliet, As You Like It, Antony and Cleopatra, Richard II, The Merchant of Venice, Richard III, and Much Ado About Nothing.

Performance-wise, there is sterner stuff to say. While none of the scenes falls flat, none is really wonderful either. Largely this is because most of the performers lack an ear for blank verse and insight into the characters they are playing.

Susanne Burns' Juliet, for example, sometimes speaks off the beat, and Mickie Mosley Braun's Cleopatra rushes her lines to convey excitement in an otherwise competently played scene.

Renee Farjeon mumbles away the lovely opening lines of Portia's famous speech ("The quality of mercy is not strained/..."), and Braun's Lady MacBeth calls up the darker powers in a superficial reading that borders on melodrama.

Likewise, Elizabeth Griffin's Queen Elizabeth, the distraught mother of murdered child princes, seems superficial in her grief, innocent of the kind of pain such a loss is bound to inflict. Griffin, as well as Farjeon (Queen Margaret) and Braun (Duchess of York) all experience difficulties with the rhythm of the lines and their music, and none of them achieves any depth of feeling in a heavily tragic scene that cannot succeed without it.

Anthony Craig, on the other hand, gives us a genuinely interesting interpretation of Richard II's prison soliloquy, while Susanne Burns offers up a delightful Rosalind in a tricky little scene from As You Like It, and Darrin Larson's Shylock shows promise.

Does all this mean you should stay home? No. Muse of Fire is a pleasant enough evening. The production has a pleasing storytelling quality, Bates' framework of narration is quite enjoyable, and the cast of competent local actors is gaining valuable experience in performing Shakespeare.

BETSY GRIFFIN (left) and Susie Burns bring to life a scene from Shakespeare's As You Like It, one of the selections included in Muse of Fire. The production continues weekends at Cherry Hall, Guadalupe and Fourth in Carmel. For ticket information, call 624-7491.

THEATER REVIEW

By Joe Guzaitis

Let 'Godspell' weave its spell on you

THE FROHMAN Academy together with the American Musical Theatre Festival has opened Godspell, "a musical based on the gospel according to St. Matthew." Basically a product of the '60s, Godspell seems to want to belong to the ages like its source material. It may just make it.

The piece starts, effectively, with a dark number, "Tower of Babble," meant to capture pre-Christian chaos, paganism, devotional confusion. The cast is in dark robes; they carry masks on sticks. The mood then yields to the exuberant "Prepare ye the way of the Lord," as the Christian epoch is announced. The show explores the various joys and sadnesses the believer experiences, all with an underlying evangelistic fervor.

The show steps right along, deftly skipping over the weaker parts of the script. (I found the contemporary references totally out of place). The cast is called upon to build up a sweat and so they do. Mikel Pippi proudly announces before the show that half of the cast are fourth year Frohman students. He is justifiably proud. These young people cannot be distinguished in ability from the veterans of the cast. Their professionalism bodes well for their careers.

The chorus roles are played by David Grubbs, Stephen Nelson Goings, Mary K. Hallisey, Lynda Hearn, Jackie Maxner, Shannon Murray, Michele Savage and Jason Vandervort. They are fresh and exciting new faces on the Monterey Peninsula theater scene.

Several production numbers stand out from the rest. "Bless the Lord" in the first half of the show captures the rush of faith in a bright and energetic song and dance led by a beaming Shannon Murray. "Turn Back, Oh Man" in the second half, led by a sultry Lynda Hearn, leads us into the dark side of man's nature.

Robert Basgall does a fine job in the role of Judas. He changes from fervent disciple, to arrogant skeptic, to finally, tormented betrayer.

Vincente Salazar plays Jesus and we are a bit surprised because he looks too ample for the role, as though he has just come through the seven years of plenty. Not exactly the Christ in the calendar photo. But what happens is that the excellent way he handles the role brings plausibility to his performance. After all, we don't really know what Christ looked like anyway. Salazar's excellent voice coupled with his control has our attention riveted on him as the focus of the action and that makes his role work.

JOHN PASQUALETTI directed, choreographed, and designed the costumes. He scores very high on two of the three. His costume design looks as if Mondrian went to work for Esprit. Functionally, the costumes are adequate but more could have probably been done (as in the Tower of Babble scene) to relate to the numbers. In the second half of the show, the costumes keep the same basic design but take on a darker tone, presumably foreshadowing the coming betrayal by Judas.

The direction, however, is tight and efficient. The choreography is sheer pleasure to watch. The undulating lines, the people heaps, tossing people around: much of it very balletic: never a dull moment.

The musical direction by Barney Hulse (who also played keyboard) was up to the energetic pace of the proceedings. The group also included David Latham on percussion, Kathy Nathan on bass and David Simms on guitar.

Some of our peninsula headliners were in attendance as support people: Keith Decker as production stage manager and Larry Ayo as theater manager. A sign of how the talent in this town keeps in circulation.

The New Wharf Theater, if you haven't been recently, is completely remodeled with real theater seats, rugs, redesigned stage area — just what it needed. (I don't think anyone will miss those sagging director's chairs of old, quaint as they were once.) Give it a try.

Godspell is well sung, well danced and will make a perfect holiday entertainment choice for many. It runs Thursday through Sunday nights, Nov. 20 through Jan. 10.

It pays to advertise in the Pine Cone

You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown

The Fort Ord Cabaret Theatre presents You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown, a light-hearted musical filled with comic candor and the abandon of early childhood.

The characters have marched off the pages of the funny papers and into this musical comedy. As the scenes of one day in the life of Charlie Brown unfold, we see a crabby but lovable Lucy, the thoughtful blanket fanatic Linus, a sensitive six-year-old musician named Schroeder, Peppermint Patty and batting ace and hopeless romantic, Charlie Brown himself.

Actors Nancy Brown, Jim Sutty, Jon Dewey, Sherri Shaw and Martin Burt bring the human characters to life, and Laura McEvoy frolics as the exuberant beagle, Snoopy.

You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown runs 8 p.m. Fridays through Sundays until Dec. 13. There will be children's matinees at 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 5 and 12. Admission is $6 general, $4 with military discount and $2 for children under 12 during matinee performances only.

The Cabaret Theatre is on the corner of Fourth Avenue and Fourth Street in Building 1288, Fort Ord. For more information, call 242-6337.

Season of Thanks

The Staff Players Repertory Company celebrates the holidays with its staging of Thornton Wilder's Season of Thanks. The ensemble presents two of Wilder's one-act plays that convey a true revelation of the deeper meaning of family life.

The Happy Journey to Trenton and Camden follows a father, mother and younger sister and brother on their drive to see a married older sister. The Long Christmas Dinner covers 90 years in the home of a Midwestern clan.

Season of Thanks plays at the Indoor Forest Theater, Mountain View and Santa Rita in Carmel-by-the-Sea. Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and 2:30 p.m. Sundays until Dec. 19. There will be no performances on Thanksgiving day.

Tickets are $8 general and $6 for senior citizens and full time students. For reservations call 624-1531.

Carmel High musicians perform Dec. 3

Carmel High School musicians have taken time out from their Australian tour preparations to concentrate on their upcoming winter concert, scheduled on Thursday Dec. 3 at the Sunset Center.

The concert will feature such favorites as Pachelbel's Canon and Ballet Parisien by Offenbach performed by the Chamber Orchestra.

The Concert Wind Ensemble selections include Bugler's Holiday by Leroy Anderson, Amparito Roca by Jaime Texidor and Twas the Night Before Christmas with a special narration by Scott MacClelland, founding president of Youth Orchestra of Monterey County and publisher of Prelude Magazine.

The Jazz Ensemble will premiere an original arrangement, Carmel Jam Blues by Frank Myers, and Dizzy Gillespie's Oop Bop Sh-bam, among other selections.

Plan to attend this special event at Sunset Center on Thursday, Dec. 3 at 7:30 p.m. A donation of $2 for students and $5 for adults is requested to help raise funds for the performing goodwill tour of Australia and New Zealand next June.

Godspell

The New Wharf Theatre in Monterey provides the setting for the Frohman Academy production of Godspell. The musical is directed and choreographed by John Pasqualetti.

The show features such songs as "Day by Day," "Turn Back, Oh Man" and many others.

The cast of Godspell includes both community actors and Frohman Academy students.

Godspell continues at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and 7:30 p.m. Sundays until Jan. 10. The theater is located on Old Fisherman's Wharf.

Tickets are priced at $9 Thursdays, $10.50 Fridays, $11.50 Saturdays and $9 Sundays. There is a $1 per ticket discount for students, military and senior citizens. Group rates are available.

THEATER REVIEW

By Joanne Tenenbaum

Staff Players stage Thornton Wilder one-acts

AT CARMEL'S Indoor Forest Theater, Staff Players has passed up the typical holiday season sure sell — the jolly, popular, big family show — for something deeper, and less well known: two minor pieces by Thornton Wilder that explore, as Wilder's plays always do, the deeper emotional experiences all people have in common, despite their obvious differences.

The Happy Journey to Trenton and Camden, directed by Norman Stottmeister, chronicles a family trip and packs into it a whole way of life — Ma riding in the back seat of the family Chevrolet with one of the kids, spouting religious platitudes, the kids reading every road sign, and Pa patiently driving along, stopping every time Ma tells him to, the whole family singing "I've Been Working on the Railroad," just to pass the time.

Pamela Murphy's Ma is vintage American mother hen. With one eye on her sulky boy and the other always on the Lord, the mainstay of her homely but nourishing approach to family life, she is the heart and spirit of the family. Steve Harris' Pa is not given much to do, but he blends in nicely to help create the noisy harmony that is Wilder's vision of the American family.

There are a few problems in the pacing — events tumble past us thick and fast rather than punctuating the monotony of a car ride — but this short play's reversal scene is genuinely touching and throws everything before it into a deeper focus.

The Happy Journey is followed by The Long Christmas Dinner, directed by Marcia Gambrell Hovick. Long indeed, for this play spans 90 years in the life of an American family, using the device of a Christmas dinner, always at the same table in the same room, as the central metaphor for both the passage of time and the repeating pattern of the family's experiences.

At this table, a young couple (Manuela Shaw and James Brady) host their first Christmas dinner, rejoice in their children, grow old, and pass away, to be followed by the next generation, and the next.

The Long Christmas Dinner is a surreal play, the realistically sumptuous holiday setting offset by such devices as an invisible maid pouring invisible wine and the disconcerting way characters leave the stage, through a door draped in black crepe, not to appear again.

The Bayards are a rising industrial family when the play begins and mature in the course of it into the first family of their city. But the pattern of their life as a family repeats in their diagloue like the border of a tapestry many years in the weaving.

The Long Christmas Dinner features a strong cast of 11 who must convey to us the passing of many years without leaving the stage. Manuela Shaw and Norman Stottmeister, as Lucia and Charles Bayard, stand out in their ability to change and grow before our eyes from young people to very old ones, and Randi Andrews turns in a solid performance from young bride to aging widow.

Carol Collin's old Mother Bayard, the first to pass through the black-draped door, give us a lovely old lady full of ancestral reminiscences, and Mary Schmidt contributes a graceful performance as a charming spinster cousin.

American family life no longer holds for us the coherence and continuity depicted in this play, but the play's surreal atmosphere keeps it from sliding into nostalgia, and the characters' issues and experiences are not so very different from our own.

Eclectic bands assemble for fifth Pelican Ben-A-Fit Ball

The Fifth Annual Pelican Ben-A-Fit Ball to benefit the MCSPCA Wildlife Center arrives Thursday, Dec. 3 at The Club, Alvarado and Del Monte, Monterey.

Once again more than five hours of non-stop entertainment will be presented beginning at 8 p.m. sharp with an electronic offering from Live Culture, a seven-piece progressive rock group from Pacific Grove.

Lotus Charm, from Monterey, will be making their debute performance at this year's ball presenting a high-powered set featuring guitarist Tito Lopez.

Que Sera Sera, local good time rockers with a punkish punch, will provide an energized set guaranteed to burn the rubber off your shoes.

The pace will be quickened by a frantic offering from Monterey's Speed Demon, a three-piece thrash band with power to spare.

Pelican Ball veterans Astonished Man will perform their special style of rock and roll with a blend of high-energy classics and dramatic originals.

Floating Mission, featuring local favorite Tom Ayres, will provide the beat to get you out of your seat at this year's event with progressive hits of the late '70s and early '80s.

The musical portion of this year's ball will be capped off as usual by Monterey's most underground band, BENT. Always different, usually bizzare, BENT will take you where no ears have been before.

Local magician Roy Slater will return this year to present his personal brand of illusions, there will be radio personalities on hand from KMBY to help elect the 1987-88 Pelican Queen, who will be awarded valuable prizes donated by local merchants.

Tickets for this event can be obtained in advance for $4 at Record Asylum, 576 Lighthouse, Monterey, or at The Club the night of the show for $5. Two full bars dictate nobody under 21 allowed.

Chamber repertoire strays into 20th century

CHAMBER MUSIC lovers are very serious about their kind of music, so that when a performing group comes along whose components are not in the strictest classical vein and whose program strays well into the 20th century, these aficionados may well attend the concert with distinct reservations.

However, by bringing Sonus Lyricus to Carmel, the Chamber Music Society of the Monterey Peninsula performed a horizon-broadening service for the above-mentioned folks, if indeed it was really needed.

Flutist Diane Gee, cellist Samuel Scott and pianist Miles Graber with guest soprano Marian Marsh gave a unique concert.

They began with the Haydn Trio in D Major, Hob:XV;16 (1790). It really should be billed as a piano sonata with flute obbligato and cello continuo, thereby summing up the true functions of the players. Graber is a superb pianist whose touch and sensitive musicality created exactly the right balance for the clockwork ensemble technique of the trio. He needs a gossamer touch so as not to drown out Gee's rather reticent tone production. The charm and lightness of the music was well captured.

The Andantino also featured delicately elegant piano playing and the occasional dialogue between flute and piano was gracefully presented. The Vivace was scampering and light-hearted. Here too the pianist had to be careful not to unleash his power. An extended flute line was played with spirit and the work wound to a delightful close with cascades of notes from the piano and flute, with the cello chugging manfully along on the bass line.

The Trio in E Minor for Piano, Flute and Cello, Op. 45 (1862) by Louise Farrenc was next. This is a truly unusual, rarely-if-ever performed work. Farrenc was a French contemporary of Mendelssohn, Liszt and Offenbach. She was admired by Berlioz, praised by Schumann and her music was performed all over Europe. She was the only woman to have been professor of piano at the prestigious Paris Conservatoire in the 19th century.

This is a mellifluous work, obviously written by a pianist. (She was married to a flutist.) The piano is very full and busy throughout. There are reminiscences of early Saint-Saens with torrents of notes on the keyboard, lovely flute and cello duets with long-lined melodies and elegant phrasings. All of these elements were brought out very professionally. Every effort was made to really showcase the work. But this is almost salon music and there must be worthier things that would warrant such care and attention.

In another program rarity, Ravel's Chansons Madecasses (1925-26), soprano Marian Marsh joined the group. The poetry for the three songs was by the 18th century Creole poet Evariste Parny and Ravel tried to evoke the exotic and erotic spirit of the lyrics. It was too bad that the texts were not available to the audience, because without them no real understanding of the composer's intent came through. More was needed than just sounds.

Marsh sang with fine clear projection and pitch, but only an occasional word could be caught. In the first song, the lines were traced graciously and the fragmentary instrumental interjections were properly timed. The war cry of the second song held one's attention and as the story telling aspects of the song unfolded, a desolate mood was heard. The third song was a lullaby with snippets of instrumental background and a soothing voice projection.

The Poulenc Sonata for Flute and Piano (1957) is a real charmer and justly loved by flutists and audiences. Here Gee was able to show what she could do and she can do a great deal when given the proper material. She has a fine mellow tone and excellent technical control. The slow movement revealed an enchanting flute line. It was an elegantly played, emotively projected musical experience and for me was a high point of the evening. The Presto starts with a flute toot and then races away with much wit and grace. It is a real fun piece and the clean competency of the playing did it full justice.

The Martinu Trio (1950) closed the program. Here again the group was in fine form and was very much appreciated by the audience who showed no apparent ill effects from their journey which touched three centuries of music so pleasantly.

'Poetry Shell' announces winning writers

Poetry Shell, the magazine of verse published on the Monterey Peninsula, has announced the winners in its annual contest. Categories and winners are as follows:

Adult, serious--first prize, Catherine Pitts; second, Bonnie Gartshore; third, Clifford L. Wolf;

Adult, light--first prize, Robert W. Johnston; second, Louise Oberbeck; third, Maurice Schoenbrun;

Teenage--first prize, Erika Cea, age 17; second, Amy Morgan, age 15; third, Diana Di Stefano, age 16;

Juvenile--first prize, Jesse Kingsley, age 11; second, Kendra Green, age 12; third, Steven Russell, age 12.

Approximately 195 poets have one or more poems printed in the winter 1987-88 edition. All poets and their friends are invited to an autograph party at the Portofino Cafe, 620 Lighthouse Ave., Pacific Grove, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Dec. 6.

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

Lil Brown at the Sheraton: gutsy, delightful stuff

IT'S QUITE appropriate that local jazz vocalist Lil Brown has been booked into the Sheraton's Monterey Bay Club on Thanksgiving night. Her presence hereabouts should evoke some gratitude within lovers of the only art form created by and for Americans.

Lil, you see, always gives the very best she has on any given evening. When I saw her work two sets in the same room on Nov. 11, portions of the crowd were particularly rowdy. But Lil retained her thoroughly professional balance and came in with sweetly swinging versions of such warhorse tunes as "September in the Rain" and "Them There Eyes."

It's no accident that Lil dips into the classic bags of Billie Holiday and Dinah Washington. When she was a youngster in Seattle, Lil spent much time with her godmother, the Blues vocalist Bea Smith. Miss Smith also ran a boarding house which was used by jazz stars when they came through town. Thus, the child became tight pals with both Billie and Dinah. Lady Day pinned a fresh flower in the fifth grader's hair (after having noted budding ability as a singer) and completed the blessing with wise words.

Lil says: "Billie called it exactly that — a blessing. She told me to carry on the truth of this music, to not let the 'star system' eat me up."

A strong urge toward independence led Lil to leave home for Los Angeles while still in her early teens. Over the years she has worked with such vital people as Tina Turner, James Brown, Ahmad Jamal, Billy Preston, Roberta Flack. She came back to the Monterey Peninsula about five months ago, following a lengthy work stint in Seattle.

What's most admirable in Lil Brown's Sheraton sets is an extremely hearty innocence. After all the roads and clubs and miles, she still approaches the song with freshness and a sense of adventure. One example: her conversion of a Gershwin love ballad into a rich throaty, scatted barn-burner. Gutsy, delightful stuff.

Lil's backup trio: pianist Andrew Fielding (witty romanticism that occasionally packs itself into a down-home Blues groove) — Marty Bartoli on drums — bassist Brian McConnell. Marty fits to colleagues' moods without relinquishing his own musical personality. McConnell solos simply confirm his position as one of the strongest and most inventive acoustic players in our region.

Lil also has begun a Sunday afternoon Blues show over KRML Jazz Radio (1410 AM). Of this she says: "It's lots of fun with plenty of room for growth. I'm getting a larger Blues library. I'd like to hear what people think of the programming thus far."

Don't forget — Lil Brown and friends at the Monterey Bay Club on Thanksgiving night. Wherever you live, she's worth the trip.

A much-published poet and arts commentator, John Detro does the morning "Jazz Tides" show over KRML Radio — 9 a.m.-noon Monday-Friday and 6-11 a.m. Saturdays. His specialty show entitled "Student Jazz" runs between 11-noon Saturdays.

Eating disorders examined during Jung enthusiasts' Friday meeting

A DISCUSSION that willl focus on the fact that eating disorders are purposeful symptoms that have real meanings in an individual's life will take place at 7 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 27 at All Saints' Church, Ninth and Dolores, Carmel, under the sponsorship of the Monterey Peninsula Friends of C. G. Jung.

The sixth in the "Bringing Books to Life" series of workshops, this one is based on the best-selling The Owl was a Baker's Daughter: Obesity, Anorexia Nervosa and the Repressed Feminine by Marion Woodman, Jungian analyst practicing in Toronto, Canada. The book offers insights into the relationship between the individuation process of a woman and the state of her body.

The text describes practical procedures which can enable a woman to hear her bodily symptoms as symbolic happenings. These can lead to an understanding of her instinctive femininity -- which has suffered wounds inflicted by herself and others.

A reviewer of the book stated that it is "Especially interesting for a sense of the Earth Mother and its recognition of the feminine principle in the Holy Spirit."

The public in invited to attend this and all other events in the Friends' program of activities, which also includes meetings on topics of special interest to small groups. The C.G. Jung Friends is an informal collection of people who share an enthusiasm for the seminal ideas of the noted Swiss psychologist.

Discussion leaders for the evening will be Nancy L. Bernhard of Carmel Valley, a trainee in Global Process Work, which is a recent development of classical Jungian principles; and Joseph Pagano of Monterey, a Jungian psychotherapist.

DANCE REVIEW

By Nathalie Plotkin

Senegal dance troupe provides superb entertainment

COMING OUT of Sunset Theater after the National Dance Company of Senegal performance, my ears were ringing and eyes full of whirling figures, thoughts of African Baroque, a Senegalese Snow White, suspiciously hula-like motions and a bit of belly dancing. These were very unexpected ingredients in the mix of an evening of superb entertainment.

The program began with a Senegalese version of the Snow White story but with the difference that the stage is set by a story-teller and three very loud drummers. The costumes were eye-filling and the story was clearly mimed. The dancing was good-natured and fast, except when it got even faster. A whirling, swirling human broom was an outstanding trimming during the wedding scene. The ending was stark and the lighting was very effective.

This was followed by a "Cora" interlude. The Cora is a 21-string African harp which looks like a lute in a Baroque nightmare. Its sound box is a huge gourd and the strings which are plucked with both thumbs have a metallic sound. The player sings and I kept wishing I knew what he was saying.

A harvest dance of the Serer (a major ethnic group) included an exhibition of their stylized wrestling. The ritual movements are very graceful and again there were the intricate, ever changing drum rhythms. The dancers kept pace and when the women took their turn their sinuous grace was hula-like. The men were much more emphatic here, frequently becoming acrobatic and airborne.

We were treated to a "Balafon" interlude. The balafon is a portable wooden-keyed marimba which went with the slaves to South America. It is played with two hammers and is used to accompany singing. It has a gentle sound (very welcome amid those thundering drums), but again I wished I knew what the songs were about.

"Mandinkole" featured ear-blistering drum rhythms on many different kinds of drums. One, played between the legs and festooned with little bells, had a particularly strong sound. The contract between the savagely costumed men and the dainty women in rather Oriental looking costumes was very effective. Their dancing echoed their appearance at first, but as was the pattern throughout the evening, it got faster and more frenzied for both sexes until finally a climactic ending came.

Interestingly, so much looked familiar. At times, one or another dancer, seemingly on impulse would take a brief solo turn in break dance style. It was apparent that any one of them could do an expert solo turn. There was a vocal background to every dance. The singing was in unison, rather high pitched and had an Arabic inflection.

Many of the drum shapes have their counterpart in a Baroque percussion battery. Cross-cultural references are very strong, especially when you realize that the wooden African flute and the African trumpet, made out of an animal horn, were used in that era in only slightly modified form.

But nothing can match the vitality, color and phenomenal stamina of these dancers. Once when the women took over the drumming it was no less exciting. Even though the dance elements are very basic, the variety in costumes and general outline helped hold interest. A stilt dancer in leopard costume was outstanding. Those stilts were very long.

The evening ended with one last burst of virtuosity, featuring grass-skirted dancers with their breasts bared. Still it was done in such straight-forward and natural fashion that it was just another decorative effect. Besides these dancers move too fast and work too hard to give a sexual overtone to their performance. I guess the company programmers felt it was expected of them.

The Senegalese Dance Company brought a unique, enjoyable and a very noisy, bright and lively change of pace to Carmel.

County Symphony turns in strong performance

UNEQUIVOCAL PRAISE is bestowed rarely, simply because concerts warranting it occur rarely. On Sunday evening, the Monterey County Symphony and Clark Suttle produced a concert which, while not calling forth unequivocal praise, is probably their best effort to date. It represented a large step forward as they grow into their potential.

Although the program was basically Romantic, there was sufficient contrast to maintain interest from start to finish. In terms of orchestral forms, these were the things Suttle does best at this point in his development — episodic works, with sudden and dramatic changes of mood; or short, tightly constructed pieces. It was also slightly shorter than the last one, certainly a step in the right direction.

The overture to The Sicilian Vespers of Verdi opened the program, an exciting, moody, lyrical work.

Cellist Gary Hoffman joined the orchestra in the least satisfying offering of the evening, the Dvorak Cello Concerto. This concerto, lovely as it is, inevitably contains some of Dvorak's compositional weakness, such as sprawling form of the first movement. In Sunday's performance, I felt Hoffman and Suttle had quite different conceptions of the work and had not yet reached the necessary compromises. The orchestra, especially in the first movement, was quite good when it was alone, but very weak in its role as accompanist. The second movement almost put me to sleep, but the third movement revived interest, redeeming the whole somewhat.

Hoffman did a good job. I found him highly competent but not thrilling. He certainly lacks nothing technically, and his intonation, even in the treacherous thumb-position passages, is excellent. But I was more taken with the sound of his 17th century Amati than I was with his playing. The sound was divine — it really seemed to embody all that is best in the violin-family sound and skip the weaknesses (this redounds to the credit of the player, of course).

William Schuman's New England Triptych was wonderfully played. Although written in the 20th century (but based on pieces by the 18th century American composer, William Billings), there is really nothing there to offend the staunchest opponent of the 20th century. "Be Glad Then America" is aggressive and robust; "When Jesus Wept" is lyrical; "Chester" is witty.

Closing the program was a tone poem of Richard Strauss, Death and Transfiguration, also well played. This is real virtuoso orchestral material, demanding much from every section. It is dramatic and exciting, ultimately introspective, and Suttle captured all this.

There were a few problems, besides those in the Dvorak. All openings could be tighter, more expository. Accompanying rhythmic patterns, particularly in the Verdi, were occasionally ragged. The brass choir could be more clear.

But it is obvious that problems are being worked out. The orchestra is very responsive to Suttle, and a "sound" is beginning to emerge (it will be helped by more agreement in the violin section). The future looks good.

Bay Symphony concert ushers in holiday season

A CONCERT of "Baroque Music to Help Welcome the Holiday Season" presented by the Monterey Bay Symphony Chamber Orchestra found a very comfortable setting amidst the poinsettias in Sunset Theater last Saturday night.

Conductor Michael Nowak showed himself as a sensitive and sensible musician who knows what he wants. Also, given an extremely limited rehearsal schedule, he is a man who achieves his results in a most economical fashion.

Nowak made one feel that the size of the hall was appropriate to the size of the orchestra, who, wonder of wonders looked as if they had enough room to play. It was an intimate feeling program, but not a small-sized one.

The Bach Brandenburg Concerto No. Six really only demands seven players. Nowak and Jill Cohen were the solo violas. Carmen Martin was the cello soloist. Harpsichordist Camille Olaeta and string bass Keith Kawasoe were the continuo and orchestra violas Sharon Jones and Donn Schroder completed the ensemble.

Since there are no violins or other soprano range instruments in the score, the sound is mellow. Playing first viola, Nowak was a strong leader with Cohen echoing his lines. The tempo was comfortable and the spirit bright. The second movement belongs to the solo violas and continuo. As the tessitura rose the instruments gave a bright, more passionate sound. Miss Martin gave a fine account of her brief cadenza.

The heavy-footed gigue moved along with the solo voices playing musical tag and in general this was a satisfactory reading.

The Corelli "Christmas Concerto" used the full string section and Nowak's flexibility and strength as a conductor was fully revealed in this music with its series of brief contrasting movements. Its culmination is the closing Pastorale which explains its name "Composed for the Night of the Nativity." It was the forerunner of many other pastorales, notably the one in the "Messiah" and in Bach's "Christmas Oratorio."

Here the soloists were violinists David Dally and cellist Carmen Martin. Nowak achieved a disciplined sound from his forces. It was also a full sound.

Fifteen-year-old violinist Leah Bayes was solist with the orchestra in "Spring" and "Winter" from "The Four Seasons" by Vivaldi. Bayes is an accomplished technician and a very serious performer. Within the framework of this very evocative music, there is much passagework and here she was accurate and steady in tempo, but her tone was undeveloped. In the cantabile movements where she could concentrate on tone production and use more bow, she achieved a better sound. The orchestra provided fine coloristic support.

The program closed with the "Suite No. 1 in C Major" by Bach. The orchestra was augmented with two oboes and a bassoon. Nowak's Bach is hardly a model of period performance practice. We got lush sound and the vibratos were out in full force. There were rough attacks and some shaky wind playing, yet the overall effect had life and spirit.

Bach wrote a lot of music in this suite, an overture and 10 dances. Nowak brought out the varying rhythms strongly and in the case of the "Forlane" too agressively. The Minuets sounded very square (very hard to do in three-quarter time) and rather coarse. The final Passepieds were played more lightly and graciously and as a consequence made a refined ending for the concert.

Volunteers needed during holidays

Northern Monterey County's Red Cross will start a mobile unit for blood donations soon and is in need of many types of volunteer workers.

Medical staffers and Red Cross officials will train volunteers at Community Hospital. The areas of need are registered nurses, both working and retired; clerical, interviewing and canteen workers.

If you can help in this project call Volunteers in Action at 373-6177.

The Holiday Project of Monterey County needs volunteers to wrap and distribute more than 1,000 gifts. The gifts are donated by local businesses and individuals and are presented to children and adults at local hospitals, rest homes and other institutions.

To be prepared for the arrival of Santa Claus, meetings take place 7 to 10 p.m. the third Monday of each month at the Monterey Public Library. At the meetings, new volunteers are told the purpose and goals of the Holiday Project, how much assistance is needed and where.

LOCATION, LOCATION

When HUGH COMSTOCK was commissioned to build the original portion of this home, an ideal site was chosen - 1 block from the BEACH providing an OCEAN VIEW. When the present owners modified and expanded it sometime later - the addition enhanced it and provided an extra large living room and 3 bedrooms, 2 baths. That was some 27 years ago. A new owner may want to further modify and update... and it's worth the cost and effort. check out the values of the surrounding neighborhood and compare with our offering price of $460,000.

High Seat on the 50-Yard Line

The first time we saw this house, it was raining. Not hard, but steadily. We liked that, though we felt it might have held off for one more day. Anyway, the rain was a double blessing because it gave us a chance to check the many windows, skylights and the big solarium for leaks. Not one!

The house is high in the mountains above Carmel Valley Village. Take Esquiline Road to the right just east of the Village, go on up to Robles del Rio Lodge, take Via Travesia across the meadow and go left on Calle de los Agrinemsors. It winds along the north rim of a great bowl in the mountains. At the end of the paved road, turn left and it's the 2nd house.

The house is all wood. A high fence protects it, great gates open to an entry patio and decorative pool, the exterior is vertical fir siding, the roof is shakes. The front door admits you to the 23x15 living room with vaulted ceiling, a river stone fireplace on the west, and broad picture windows across the room opening to a spacious deck and endless views of the Santa Lucia Mountains.

Two skylights bring the outside in. The walls are vertical planking, relieved by diagonal planks above the fireplace. Two long mirrors add to the sense of height, and bookshelves are conveniently placed.

At left is a dining alcove, and behind it a Pullman kitchen with tiled counters and attractive appliances. Washer and dryer are hidden behind wide double doors.

Doorways to right and left of the fireplace lead to the two bedrooms and two baths. Walls and ceilings are again wood planking, and a large cupola is placed above the master bedroom. Just under it is a small mezzanine, a sort of hideaway.

The Thermo-paned solarium is at the west end, beyond the bedrooms, and is furnished with a large spa, complete with Jacuzzi jets. The mountain views from here and from the deck are breathtaking.

The lot is a little over one acre. There are terraces and a rose garden below the deck, and the grounds are beautifully planted and maintained. The house is a little hard to find the first time, but well worth it. And the second time's a cinch. It's 1700 sq. ft., priced at $215,000.

CARMEL LEGENDS

No. 43

A curious character who keeps flitting in and out of early Carmel history is MARY AUSTIN. Well, perhaps "flit" is not quite the right verb for her activities, because she is described a "a dumpy little woman" who walked the beaches and let her long brown hair dangle to her shoulders. Instinctively we don't like her much, but we admire her independence and her success in competing with the macho men fronted by George Sterling and Jack London. In a time (1900-1915) when women were supposed to be seen and not heard, she was a worthy successor to Eve., Cleopatra, Queen Victoria, Carrie Chapman Catt, Florence Nightingale and Carrie Nation. And possibly an inspiration to Gloria Steinem, Eleanor Roosevelt and Jane Fonda. She came to Carmel in 1905, already the author of a successful book, The Land of Little Rain. In Carmel, she finished her first novel, Isidro, polishing its phrases in a tree-house behind her home, which she called a "wick-i-up." She battled Sterling and London on even terms, hit home runs in the Abalone League, and wrote 35 verses for "The Abalone Song." Late in 1907, after less than 2 intense years in Carmel, she became convinced that she was terminally ill and moved to Italy to die. That didn't come off. She recovered and drifted back to Carmel through England and New York, arriving in 1913. She was always a storm center and departed finally in 1924 to Santa Fe where she ended her days.

Weihnachtsmarkt

Every year on December 6, there's a St. Nicholas Day celebration at the Barnyard. Just like an old European-Style weihnachtsmarkt, the merchants set their wares on open-air tables, clowns and jugglers, musicians and singers entertain while delicious smells come from the restaurants and bakeries.

As dusk approaches, anticipation grows and the crowd senses that St. Nicholas is on his way. Suddenly, appearing from the darkness, the looming figure rides into the center coutyard on his great white horse. He raises his golden staff, and as if by magic, the magnificent Christmas tree explodes into color, festive lights blaze from every rooftop as a choir joins in song.

Truly this is one of the most memorable Christmas celebrations anywhere and a tradition that children and adults will always remember.

The Barnyard Weihnachtsmarkt, Dec 6. from noon till dark.

Custom fit your golf swing with help from the Clubworks

Clubworks was opened in Oct. 1986 by John Napoli. Although Clubworks is new, John has been a club maker since 1972. Over that period of time, he has incorporated the best features of many of the old classic woods and put them in his tradition series.

Tradition USA is composed of the finest USA persimmon, classic head shapes, fibre insert with verticle or horizontal brass inlays.

Tradition II. Rock hard laminated maple, two-color brass insert face angle 2 degrees hooked to aid against slicing.

And now the Un-Wood. 17-4 stainless steel head, 9.5-degree loft, beautifully finished, teamed with Aldilas' new H-M40 boron graphite shaft. This could be the longest club around.

Along with the very popular E-Z 3 irons, and the all new variable lie personal model irons, Clubworks can offer you the finest hand-crafted custom fit clubs on the market today — all at factory direct prices.

Clubworks is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday and is located at 637 Ortiz in Sand City

Carmel Coin Exchange serves collectors, holiday gift buyers

At Carmel Coin Exchange all systems are go for the holiday season, with interesting gifts being the order of the day.

Try this on for size: a one-ounce silver round with a pendant inside. Would you believe a pendant picturing Pope John Paul II or Clint Eastwood?

"You name it and we've got silver rounds to commerate that," boasts co-owner Ed McConnell.

While this is only the second month McConnel and partner Richard Patterson have operated Carmel Coin Exchange in The Crossroads, for the past eight years they have run an identical store in Salinas.

In addition to silver specialty items, Carmel Coin Exchange also carries bulk silver, gold and platinum for the investor.

If it's rare coins you're interested in, a visit to Carmel Coin Exchange is a must. With coins from around the world, the perfect gift can always be found.

McConnell adds that many people like to buy that special person a proof set commemorating the year that person was born.

Carmel Coin Exchange is also always in the market for scrap gold and estate goods, such as jewelry and sterling silver.

Carmel Coin Exchange is open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

NUMISMATISTS and just plain coin lovers will find their gift-giving prayers answered at Carmel Coin Exchange. There's double-value in the gifts found here, since coins and precious metals are not only beautiful but collectible. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).*

Gifts chosen from Gepetto's please discerning toy lovers

Christmas is to Gepetto's what chestnuts are to an open fire — neither is complete without the other.

Gepetto's magical toy shop, located in The Crossroads in Carmel, is filled with beautiful and enchanting collectibles and gifts for adults.

Here owners Dennis Smiley and Dale Williams have successfully created a "fun" store, which also emphasizes the quality service of an era gone by.

One glance and you'll fall in love with Gepetto's antique reproduction porcelain dolls — handmade in Old World tradition here on the West Coast. Each doll is intricately detailed, costumed, numbered and signed by the artist.

There you'll also find Harlequin clowns and Pierrot design dolls, Madame Alexander dolls, as well as Cabbage Patch kids delivered exclusively from Babyland General Hospital.

A TRULY magical toy shop is Gepetto's in the Crossroads. Not only children but adults as well welcome a Christmas gift from Gepetto's. The selection includes David Winter ceramic miniature houses, Chilmark pewter sculptures and music boxes. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

Gepetto's also carries a wide selection of David Winter ceramic miniature houses. These detailed reproductions of French Normandy designs — replete with thatched roofs — make the ideal collectible or gift for that special person.

Other specialty items include porcelain dolls, imported from Europe; limited edition Chilmark pewter sculptures; music boxes and Caithness of Scotland paperweights.

Of course no toy store would be complete without loveable, huggable stuffed animals. Here again, Gepetto's is well-stocked with everything from one-of-a-kind teddy bears to Italian-made stuffed animals, as well as creations from Steiff, Herman and Auxnations of France.

Gepetto's holiday hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday; 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

SERVING THE Central Coast for more than 50 years, Green's Camera and Video in Oldtown, Salinas, can meet any photographic needs. Green's offers a full range of video products by RCA and Minolta, not to mention cameras and a wide range of custom photo services. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

From photo products to service Green's Cameras is the source

Afraid to trust just anyone with those precious Christmas photos? Then take your film to the professionals at Green's Camera and Video, 350 S. Main St. in Salinas.

Green's is a name you can trust because they are third generation photo specialists, serving the Central Coast for more than 50 years.

They offer custom color film processing in as little as one hour, as well as black and white printing and enlarging services.

But mainly, Green's is a camera specialty dealer featuring Minolta, Canon, Pentax and Konica cameras as well as lenses, flashes, tripods and other accessories.

If you're in the market for video equipment, Green's is still the place to go because they offer a full range of video products by RCA and Minolta including camcorders, television sets and monitors.

Visit Green's Camera and Video Center for all of your photographic needs. Their knowledgeable and friendly staff is available to help you from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Wednesday; 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Thursday and Friday; and 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Saturdays. Through the holidays, Green's will also be open from noon to 5 p.m. on Sundays.

Creative Spirit will plan your party and wrap those gifts

Just repeat after me: Shopping is fun... shopping is fun... shopping is fun. To make this idea come alive just step into Creative Spirit and have a ball.

PARTY PLANNERS and gift-wrappers extraordinaire, the staffers of Creative Spirit in the Crossroads brings a custom touch to every project they undertake. Visit Creative Spirit and meet your holiday helpers, (from left, foreground) Kim Ramsey and Debi Netzly-Lewis; and standing on the stairs, Debbie Keller and Em Netzly. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

With three times the space it occupied last year, Creative Spirit now offers a more than ample supply of gifts, gift wrapping services and party ideas.

"We try to be a one-stop shopping place for people and their needs," says owner Debi Netzly. "We're just fun people; it's a fun store."

You bettcha.

This year, Creative Spirit is also working with its next-door neighbor in The Crossroads, Mailboxes Etc. USA. Mailboxes sends packages anywhere in the world after Creative Spirit does the wrapping.

Each gift is wrapped with the customer in mind, with 15 styles of paper to choose from plus assorted ribbons and bows.

"It's not your typical stick-on bow," says Netzly. "We can do whatever people want us to do."

And for parties Creative Spirit has any treat or necessity needed — Netzly and her staff will even come out to your home to offer party ideas and suggestions.

Of course you'll find a wide selection of invitations, paper plates, napkins and streamers, everything you'll need to produce a colorful, well-coordinated party.

For just plain gift ideas — say for Johnnie's grade-school teacher — Creative Spirit really goes to work with any number of resources to help you find the perfect gift.

Creative Spirit is open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday (until 8 p.m. beginning Dec. 1); 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sundays.

A HOLIDAY kitchen or bath make-over can be achieved through the services of Tynan Custom House. Manager Cheryl Panziera and the rest of the staff can assist with any project, and the custom showroom makes the search for cabinets and fixtures a pleasure. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

Make over one room or several through Tynan Custom House

Most people walk in here and say, "Wow, I didn't know this was here!"

They're talking about Tynan Custom House kitchen cabinet showroom, tucked back in the lumberyard next to the retail store at 325 Front St. in Salinas.

Tynan now has seven kitchen cabinet displays in this showroom, with five different cabinet lines to choose from, plus bathroom cabinets, medicine cabinets, sinks and hardware displays.

Cheryl Panziera, Custom House manager; Mike Hatfield, with more than 20 years' experience in the kitchen cabinet business and Mary Onitsuka, a talented and creative interior designer, offer personalized service to help you to find the right look in the right price range, whether you're a contractor who needs that inexpensive particle-wood cabinet or a more discriminating homeowner who wants a top-quality custom kitchen,

New Masters represents local artists of international renown

No matter what your pocketbook dictates this Christmas season, New Masters Gallery is sure to have artwork to match your needs.

For 18 years the family-owned gallery has been serving Carmel residents, offering an impressive array of original art and reproductions.

More than 50 national and international artists are represented by the gallery, with works shown in the marble and glass facility located on Sixth Avenue near San Carlos Street in Carmel-by-the-Sea.

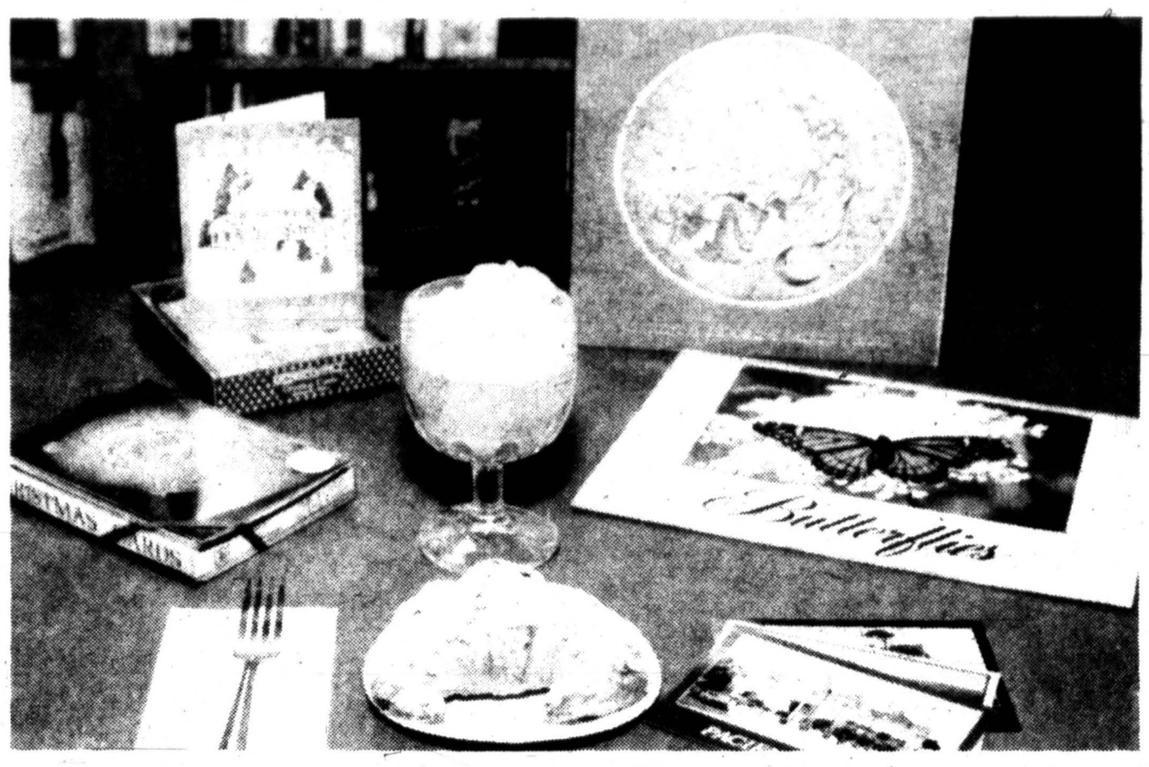
For example, this December New Masters will feature original paintings by Brenda Morrison, known for her charming, colorful still lifes and landscapes.

And beginning Dec. 5, New Masters will be displaying reproductions of original Will Bullas watercolors, who is known for his humorus works.

A great inexpensive gift also offered at New Masters is the 1988 Confederate Air Force Calendar featuring reproductions of paintings by Stan Stokes.

New Masters is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Sunday.

THE WHIMSICAL paintings of peninsula artist Will Bullas make an inspired holiday gift. Reproductions of his fanciful watercolors will be available at Carmel's New Masters Gallery in December, in addition to original paintings by many other noted artists. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).*



BOOKWORKS, that Pacific Grove institution on Lighthouse Avenue, is well worth visiting over the holiday season. Your shopping becomes easier with the personalized service and wide selection available at the Bookworks, and lagging shoppers can seek refreshment at the coffee bar. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

Blend shopping and pleasure with a stop at the Bookworks

The wonderful thing about a bookstore is that it truly provides something for people of all ages — the Bookworks in Pacific Grove is no exception.

The Bookworks is the ideal place to buy all of your Christmas gifts.

Some new selections lining the shelves at Bookworks include local author Shirley Holt's "Night Before Christmas"; a true story by Cleveland Armory, "The Cat Who Came for Chirstmas"; and actress Marlo Thomas' "Free to be a Family."

The Bookworks also stocks a large selection of boxed nostalgic Christmas cards, 1988 calendars and imported periodicals.

While browsing the wares at Bookworks, you may want to stop for a while and enjoy a respite at the coffee bar, which offers espresso drinks, hot cocoa and luscious desserts.

The Bookworks is open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week. It's located on Lighthouse Avenue across from the U.S. Post Office in downtown Pacific Grove.

Marielle's gift certificates beautify all who receive them

What better way to get yourself ready for the incoming holiday season than a day of pampering at Marielle's? This extraordinary salon de beaute is located in The Barnyard.

Marielle's "A Day of Beauty" is guaranteed to chase away any case of the dreaded end-of-the-year blues.

Included in the five-hour regimen is an hour-long full body massage, followed by an hour-long deep cleansing facial, a manicure, pedicure, hair treatment and styling and a make-up consultation and application.

Marielle's even serves a nutritious lunch of fresh fruit and yogurt during your stay.

All of Marielle's special services are also available a la carte including the body massage, facials, make-up applications and hair care services, including cutting, perming, cellophane treatments and coloring.

Marielle's even offers weight-loss programs, electrolysis and lingerie boutique.

Susan Haycock is the shop's resident masseuse, adept in a variety of techniques including Swedish and therapeutic massage as well as cellulite treatment.

By the way, the salon is qualified to accept payment from insurance companies for therapeutic massage service for sports injuries.

Marielle's deep cleansing facials go a long way toward getting skin back into shape and leaving you with a healthy glow. The facials feature Dr. Barbor products, a herbal-based skin care line for sensitive or mature skin.

Permanent hair removal by electrolysis is the newest service available at Marielle's. Using the safe, effective thermolysis and blend methods, unwanted hair can be removed from any part of the body.

Finally, to help you look as beautiful as you feel, Marielle's offers a fully stocked lingerie shop where you'll find underwear, nightgowns and teddies by makers such as Cinzia, Gottex, Christine, Proenza, Ralph Lauren and Lejaby.

And here's another idea for that special friend. Why not give a gift certificate for any or all of Marielle's services.

For an appointment, call 625-5588.

GIFT CERTIFICATES redeemable at Marielle's can be applied to the salon's famous "Day of Beauty" and other services, as well as in Marielle's boutique, where luxurious lingerie is showcased. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

RICH TEXTURES and colors are the hallmark of the fashions featured at Carmel Pendleton, Sixth and San Carlos in Carmel. In addition to fine clothing, Carmel Pendleton also carries blankets and rugs with Indian-inspired motifs. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

Luscious shades and textures arrive at Carmel Pendleton

It's hard to imagine a store with more colorful Christmas gifts than Carmel Pendleton, where each season brings new shades of color to the downtown Carmel-by-the-Sea store.

Shoppers can find jackets, shirts, scarves, sweaters and pants to combine outfits for both men and women at Carmel Pendleton, located at Sixth Avenue and San Carlos Street.

"A person doesn't have to go all over town to try and match anything," explains Betty Morris. 'Our customers love it that all Pendleton clothes are designed to match."

That's not to say that the Pendleton's traditional tartan colors of red, navy blue and green are the only colors available — quite the contrary is true.

This holiday season finds a rainbow of new colors ranging from purple and coral to green and midnight blue.

Other great gift ideas from Carmel Pendleton include Indian blankets and rugs, car blankets and Indian baby blankets.

So whether it's tradition or the newest styles you are looking for, Carmel Pendleton is the smart place to shop.

Carmel Pendleton is open seven days a week.

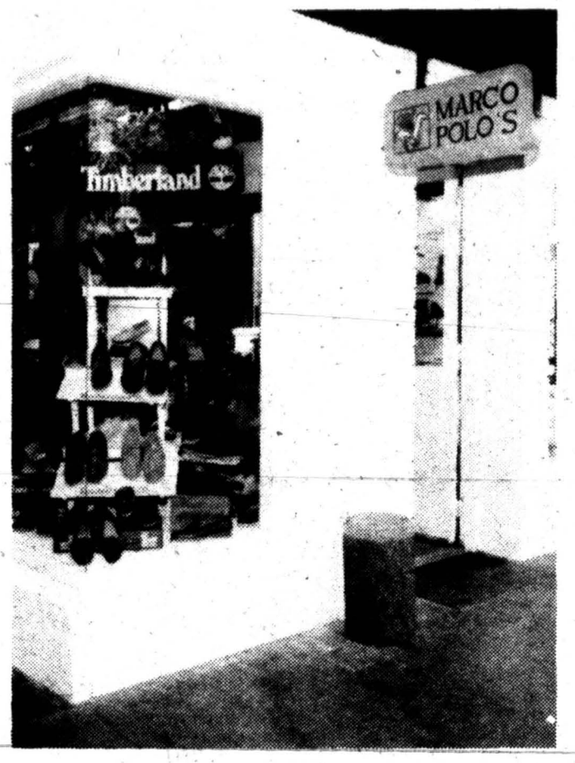
Travelling gear the specialty of Marco Polo in Carmel Plaza



GEAR UP for travel with the supplies showcased at Marco Polo in Carmel Plaza. From luggage to shaving kits to comfortable walking shoes, Marco Polo meets the travellers' needs. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

Just about everybody has heard of the famous travels of explorer Marco Polo. Now, for those people getting ready to do a little travelling of their own, there is a unique store named after the Italian gentleman.

Marco Polo, located in the Carmel Plaza, has travelling items for all your needs, with only the finest quality goods on display.

Leather luggage — that Marco Polo himself could have used — is the order of the day. Try these famous brand names on for size: Ricardo, Hartman, Bond Street and Bosca.

Or how about some shoes for exploring those far away places? Men's shoes include Rockport and Timberland, while ladies' footwear offers stylings by Bernardo and Ramika.

That's not to mention the assorted needs of a traveler offered at Marco Polo such as garment bags, manicure sets, brief cases and shaving kits.

No matter how large or small the travelling need Marco Polo is the place to shop. The store is open from 9:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. seven days a week.

MAKE YOUR car look new this season by treating it to a visit to Steve's Detailing. Cars are cleaned inside and out, and everything from the hood ornament to wheels will stand up to a demanding inspection. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

Steve's Detailing makes cars shine for the holidays

For car care that will make both you and your auto smile, drive into Steve's Detailing. It might cost a little more than most, but it's well worth it.

"We're not the most reasonable," says owner Jim Kemp. "But we're far and away the most professional."

Thoroughness both inside and out, from the hood ornament down to the gas cap is the order of the day at Steve's Detailing.

Just to sample Steve's service, try the hand car wash. Here, the exterior is scrubbed and the interior is vacuumed and the windows and tires washed for only $12.

Then there's the complete auto detail, which will surely make your car shine, shine, shine.

Beginning with hand cleaning the engine, the rest of the car is then polished and waxed, including the tires and wheels. Next the car's interior vinyl is cleaned and conditioned.

This service ranges in price from $120 to $140, depending upon the condition of the car.

Exterior detailing only costs $80.

For an appointment call 375-5733.

Carmel Country Home evokes old-fashioned warmth

Christmastime at Carmel Country Home is almost like, well; being in your own living room. Located in the mall on San Carlos Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues, this charming shop is rich in primitive and antique reproduction furniture from the early 1900s and American folk art accents.

Don't miss Carmel Country Home's special collection of hickory twig and oak furniture made by the Amish in Pennsylvania. With slats made of oak, walnut or cherry wood, it's furniture to be cherished for years to come.

Especially for Christmas, Carmel Country Home is featuring carved primitive wood figures from Wolfcreek, including Santa and Mrs. Claus, toy soldiers, Christmas trees and snowmen. Of course, each piece is signed by the artist.

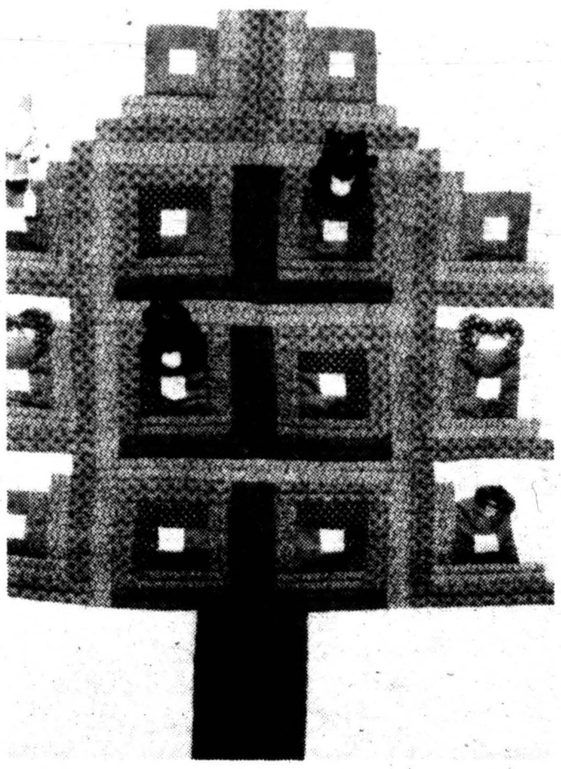
The smaller primitive wood, hand-painted angels, bears, geese and hearts, make good stocking stuffers.

Carmel Country Homes also now offers a unique selection of colorful afghan throw rugs with Christmas scenes such as a sleigh rider sewn into them.

From North Carolina, Carmel Country Homes has a handmade quilt selection to keep you warm on those cold winter nights.

And for collectors, Carmel Country Home has a large selection of Santas to choose from, made of both cloth and wood.

Of course, Carmel Country Home offers friendly old-fashioned customer service and flexible hours — they're open from 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day.



NORTH CAROLINA-made, handsome, handmade quilts are available locally through Carmel Country Home. The shop features all the appointments that make home cozy over the holidays, such as hickory twig and oak furniture, hand-painted angels and carved primitive wood figures. Precious porcelain, crystal displayed at Viking Sails

For almost 35 years Viking Sails has been providing unique gifts for Carmel shoppers.

EXQUISITE Irish Dresden porcelain is but one of the reasons shopping is a pleasure at Viking Sails. For more than 35 years Viking Sails has welcomed collectors of cut glass and silver goods. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

There's just no end to the joy of discovering the store's special treasures.

"It's where shopping is a pleasure," says co-owner Kathleen Ritter, who operates the store with brother Gary. "The more you look, the more you see."

Located next to the U.S. Post Office on Fifth Avenue in Carmel-by-the-Sea, Viking Sails offers a delightful blend of traditional and contemporary gift ideas.

Perhaps best known for imported crystal from Czechoslovakia and West Germany plus porcelain wares, Viking Sails has a wide selection of both.

Also consider choosing from Swarovski fine-cut and cased crystal or crystal stem ware. Or maybe you're looking for Hummel and Irish Dresden porcelain.

"The Viking Sail is considered a tradition as far as giftware in Carmel," boasts Gary, who adds he and his sister purchased the store two months ago.

Viking Sails also offers decorative side dishes and silver goods.

Open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sundays, Viking Sails also gift wraps presents and ships via UPS anywhere in the world.

JIM AND Jill Sleeper, owners of Mailboxes Etc. USA make the holidays much easier for their customers. Among the services at this Crossroads shop are packing and shipping of gifts, telephone message taking and even passport photography. Visit Mailboxes Etc. USA and streamline your holiday chore list. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/-Carmel Studio).

Mail Boxes Etc. USA eases a multitude of holiday chores

Long lines have become as much a part of the Christmas holidays as mistletoe. Except, my little elves, at Mailboxes Etc. USA, where waiting is a thing of the past.

In addition to its post office, phone message services, passport photos and message sending services through Western Union, Mailboxes also provides a package shipping service via UPS, Emery, Airborne and Federal Express — by appointment.

Gone are the days of standing for hours waiting in the post office. All you need to do is call up Mailboxes and the nice folks there will set up a ½-hour time slot for you between the hours of 8 and 10 a.m. or 6 and 8 p.m.

Owners Jim and Jill Sleeper add that customers don't even have to wrap or box the gifts before coming in — just come on down, they'll do the rest.

Working in conjunction with Mailboxes is Creative Spirit, which offers custom gift wrapping in a variety of styles.

Another service offered by Mailboxes is its "Letters to Santa." Just fill out the form and drop it into the North Pole slot at Mailboxes and come Christmas time the little one will receive a handwritten letter from St. Nick himself, postmarked from the top of the world.

This year, in addition to its locations in The Crossroads and Pacific Grove, Mailboxes Etc. USA has a store in downtown Carmel next to Saks Fifth Avenue in the Carmel Plaza. Phone: 625-2800 or 372-4849.

Contemporary art featured at Hanson Galleries

Many galleries refer to their inventory as "the biggest," "the best," or "most important." Yet very few have the international reputation, the prestige of world-famous artists, service of the finest consultants and certainly some of the most beautiful locations in the country. Not a claim made lightly yet one visit to the stunning Hanson Galleries on Ocean Avenue in Carmel will transport you off the hectic boulevard and into a world-class showplace of some of the most famous names in contemporary work.

Hanson Galleries is the largest representative of the works of LeRoy Neiman, Thomas McKnight, Erte, Hisashi Otsuka and Frederick E. Hart. Hanson Galleries is also privileged to be the exclusive international agent for Peter Max, Joanna Zjawinska, Adrian Deckbar, Colleen Ross and two of Italy's most famous names, Mario Madiai and Mario Fallani.

They are also the country's major representative of Claude Pissarro, grandson of the patriarch of the French Impressionist movement, Camille Pissarro.

Hanson Galleries invites you to visit their newly remodeled location on Ocean Avenue near San Carlos Street, now in its fifth year. Other Hanson Galleries are located in Sausalito, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Beverly Hills, La Jolla and New Orleans. Experience the international world of fine art the "Hanson Way," simply the best.

HANSON GALLERIES maintains branches at major cities around the United States. Its Carmel-by-the-Sea location is on the north side of Ocean Avenue near San Carlos Street. Hanson Galleries features original paintings, limited edition prints and sculpture by such artists as Claude Pissarro, Hisashi Otsuka, Erte, LeRoy Neiman, Thomas McKnight and Joanna Zjawinska. Put Ons in Pacific Grove puts back fun in holiday dressing

PUT ONS manager Vanila Helm models an outfit pulled together from the holiday collection featured this season at the store. Put Ons, located in Pacific Grove, specializes in personalized service and everything from dresses and jumpsuits to accessories. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

The experience of Christmas shopping at Put Ons in Pacific Grove can be described in a word: fun.

Couple the hip atmosphere of neon lighting, high-tech mannequins and good music with a knowledgeable staff and you've got yourself a great deal.

"We help people," says manager Vanila Helm. "We like to treat people like they're our guests. It's not unusual to be with a customer for a couple of hours."

During the holiday season that first-rate service includes free gift wrapping, not to mention spur-of-the-moment sales that slash already reasonable prices.

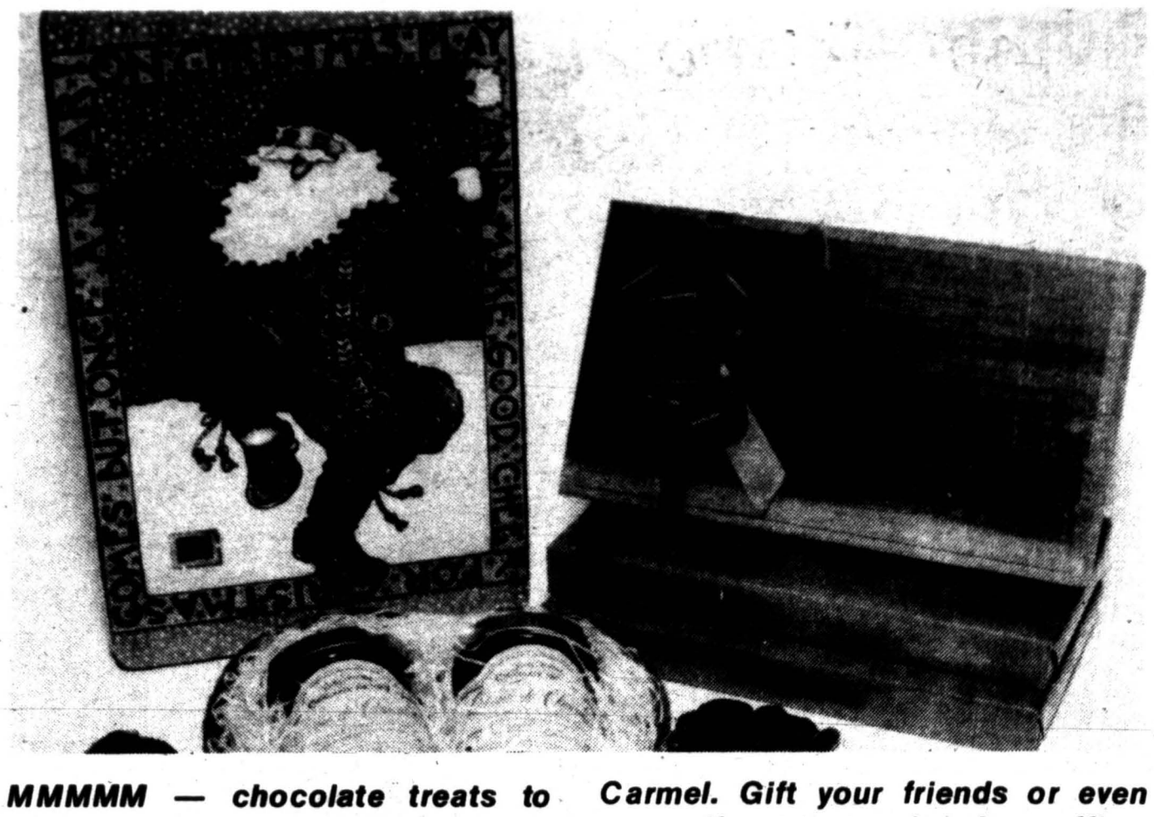
One of the reasons it takes shoppers a while to make up their minds at Put Ons is because the selection of clothes is so extensive.

To name just a few of the choices, there's the Naturell line of raw silk clothes by Georguio, Karen Alexander dresses and jump suits, Esprit sportswear and a large selection by Guess, the popular denim designer.

Put Ons is now offering a storewide sale on all of its inventory of sweaters.

Put Ons also carries a wide variety of accessories to go with your new wardrobe. Sterling silver by Tomas and earrings and necklaces by Gorman are favorites at the store.

Put Ons is open from 9:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday, 9:30 to 6 p.m. Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday.



MMMMM — chocolate treats to greet the season have been assembled for your pleasure at Carmel Chocolate Factory in Paradise Mall, Ocean and Dolores, Carmel. Gift your friends or even yourself with handmade truffles, brittles and fudge. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

Satisfy those chocoholics at Carmel Chocolate Factory

Just about the last thing most people have time for during the busy holiday season is baking sweets. That also happens to be one of the necessary ingredients when throwing a successful Christmas party — enter the Carmel Chocolate Factory.

At the Chocolate Factory, located in Paradise Mall on the corner of Ocean Avenue and Dolores Street, owners Cindi and Bob Johnston will help you pick out the best selection of sweets for that special occasion.

"We can take all of the headaches out of baking for people," says Cindi.

In a show of Christmas spirit, the Chocolate Factory is offering a free ½ pound of fudge for each pound purchased.

The Chocolate Factory also has a wide selection of handmade truffles, cashew and peanut brittle plus fresh Carmel apples. All of these treats are made while you watch.

The Chocolate Factory will also cater your party with trays of sweets.

The store's hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Celebrate the automobile with help of Carmel Motoring

For a complete assortment of automobile gifts, the right place to shop this Christmas is Carmel Motoring, located on Seventh Avenue between Dolores and Lincoln streets in Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Perhaps the best way to approach such an eclectic inventory is to simply name a cross-section of the treats.

OK, let's go.

Custom-made license plate holders; car badges for the grille of your car; dye-cast models of both European and American cars; automotive reference books featuring models ranging from Ferrari and Mercedes to Cheverolet and Pontiac; embroidered sweatshirts with the manufacturer's logo; custom-engraved dash plaques; classy auto posters and 1988 calendars.

For almost three years Carmel Motoring has been fulfilling every need the erudite auto consumer has with this year being no different.

Carmel Motoring is open from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. seven days a week.

CAR LOVERS are always looking for new ways to express their fanaticism. Carmel Motoring answers their call with a constantly growing inventory of automotive-related gifts, from clothing to car miniatures to reference books. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

ART SUPPLIES are on many a wish list this holiday season. Oliver's Art and Framing Center in downtown Monterey makes wishes come true, and Oliver's will even have a three-day sale to make buying easy on the pocketbook. Virginia Bickford has owned the store with her husband since 1967. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

Oliver's Art and Framing fulfills every artist's wish

Oliver's Art and Framing Center in downtown Monterey doesn't pretend to be anything but what it is: a fine arts and graphic art supply house that caters primarily to peninsula residents.

With only two owners in the store's 93-year history, Oliver's has always maintained a consistent, small-town image regarding professional service, which is geared toward any level of expertise or any size pocketbook.

"We believe everyone is artistic and creative," says owner Virginia Bickford, who purchased the store with her husband in 1967.

With that in mind, Oliver's will conduct a three-day Christmas sale Nov. 27-29. Art supplies for ages 9 to 90 will be offered at reduced prices.

Located at Abrego Avenue and Church Street, Oliver's is open 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and noon to 4 p.m. on Sundays until Christmas.

HOLIDAY Gift Guide

BEAUTY AND bargains are in the offing at the new location of Maison Val Du Soleil on El Caminito in Carmel Valley Village. Long known for fine, regional French antiques, the store will reduce prices over the holidays on a number of decorator items. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/-Carmel Studio).

The Erte jewelry collection sparkles at the Reid Gallery

"FIREFLIES" is among the limited edition jewelry designs by Erte that can be viewed at Reid Gallery. Reid Gallery now maintains two locations in the Barnyard, located off Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road.

First you take an unusual collection of fine art pieces, then sprinkle in some unique jewelry and top that off with a fabulous crystal collection and you've probably got a pretty good idea what goes on at Reid Gallery in The Barnyard.

The Reid Gallery features the largest collection of jewelry by Erte on the West Coast. Erte, born Romain de Tirtoff in St. Petersburg, Russia, in 1892, first rose to artistic prominence in the 1920s. A man of infinite talents, Erte has enthralled audiences for seven decades with his elegant and imaginative designs.

Reid Gallery carries not only his jewelry, but also Erte's limited edition bronze and print collections.

The gallery now maintains two locations in the Barnyard. Its newly opened second gallery is housed upstairs from the original location. A third branch of the Reid Gallery is in Friday Harbor, Washington.

Fine country furniture shown at Maison Val du Soleil

If you're looking for a bargain this Christmas take advantage of Maison Val Du Soleil's moving sale at its new Carmel Valley location.

Known in the valley for her fine, regional French antiques, Maison Val Du Soleil owner Germaine Floch Lestrade says she is offering a substantial reduction on a number of decorator items.

The store specializes in 18th century and turn-of-the-century pieces, which range from armoires and tables to hand-carved wooden beds frames. Maison Val Du Soliel must reduce its stock at its new El Caminito location in the Carmel Valley Village.

Maison Val Du Soliel will also offer lush tapestries during its moving sale.

The antique furniture store is open from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and is closed Sunday and Monday.

THE SEARCH for fashions that reflect holiday elegance ends at Elizabeth Simmons, located in the Crossroads, Carmel. The choice of designs and designers is many, and includes this red satin dress by Adele Simpson, which features a crinoline beneath. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

The search for holiday clothing ends at Elizabeth Simmons

What better excuse for dressing up can you ask for than a Christmas party? After all, that's often the best part of eating, drinking and being merry.

After 33 years of helping peninsulans ready themselves for the holidays, Elizabeth Simmons, located in The Crossroads, has outdone itself this year.

With a large selection of cashmere sweaters, St. John jewelry, Alex Kirk belts and dresses for formal occasions, you can't go wrong at Elizabeth Simmons.

"From daytime, to cocktail, to black tie, we have it," boasts owner Carol Speegle.

"We don't only do hems," explains Speegle. "We do major operations."

Estate jewelry of rare quality assembled at Fourtane's

Whether you're buying or selling jewelry, Fourtane's Jewelry on Ocean Avenue next to the Pine Inn in Carmel will surely meet your needs.

After 23 years serving peninsula residents by offering estate and antique treasures, it's become apparent Fourtane's owners John and Sandy Bonifas are experts in their field.

Fourtane's extensive collection of estate/antique jewelry is the largest in the state and ranges from platinum and gold set rings to diamonds and silver tea sets.

The wonderful thing about estate jewelry is that each piece has a history of its own — a past life, if you will. It's fun just to browse around Fourtane's and speculate what occasion surrounded the first presentation of these special items.

"We have jewelry that you can't find at any price today," says John Bonifas, who purchased Fourtane's — a landmark in Carmel for 37 years — eight months ago with his wife. "We have a selection of things that aren't mass produced."

One of the givens in buying antique and estate jewelry is that each piece is one of a kind, whereas if an article is purchased at another jeweler its likely to be one of thousands made.

Fourtane's also offers full jewelry service and repair along with some contemporary pieces and sterling silver.

ESTATE and antique jewelry of a quality rarely produced today is the specialty of Fourtane's Jewelry, located next to the Pine Inn in downtown Carmel. The search ends here for platinum and gold set rings and even tea sets. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

Fourtane's is open from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 11 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. each Sunday.

DIANE SWAYNE, manager of Hilda of Iceland in Carmel-by-the-Sea, has met up with Santa to wish customers happy holidays. They're both wearing pullovers of warm Icelandic wool, which is lightweight yet naturally soil and water resistant. Discover these and other fashons at Hilda of Iceland. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

Hilda of Iceland woolens provide natural comfort

Discover Iceland. The world is discovering Iceland, the site of the world's oldest parliament, magnificent volcanic landscapes, the cradle of Norse culture.

During its silver anniversary, Hilda of Iceland is offering a round trip for two to Iceland — all you need to do to enter the drawing is to come in the store and fill out an entry blank. You don't even have to be there Dec. 15 when the lucky pair is selected.

But for those that can't wait for the drawing, shopping at the downtown Carmel store is almost like taking a trip to the other side of the globe.

These rich collections of traditional handknits and contemporary European-styled fashions for men and women are available at Hilda Ltd., located on Ocean Avenue between San Carlos and Dolores streets.

Hilda of Iceland carries designer jackets, sweaters, capes, coats, hooded pullovers and accessories.

The store is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Import holiday cheer with selections from Flemat

Shoppers used to wait anxiously for the one or two times each year Flemat would open its wholesale warehouse to the public. But that's changed now, with the imported Christmas decoration/gift store open to shoppers year-round.

Christmas items from around the globe can be purchased in one side of the store. Many times these treasures are one-of-a-kind.

"What we carry is what we get good buys on," says owner Hilma Smith. "It might not be here next week."

Some examples of Flemat's wares: angels imported from the Philippines; carved wooden ornaments — such as Pinocchio from Italy; and straw stars and treetoppers from Austria.

Christmas accessories include chocolate and paper Advent calendars, artificial Christmas trees and paper goods for the holiday season.

The other half of Flemat carries a bevy of potential presents for putting under that newly decorated tree.

Located on the corner of Central and Eardly avenues in Pacific Grove, Flemat is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday.

Add to or begin a silver collection at Phil Hambrook

Even though there's more than enough modern items to choose from when selecting gifts this Christmas, other ideas come to mind when antiques enter the picture.

At Phil Hambrook Antiques in Monterey, the past becomes quite appealing when perusing its wares.

"It's a very unique collection of items and Christmas gifts," says Hambrook spokesperson Nilufer Cicin. "We're also the newest antique store around."

Cicin suggests silver lockets, bracelets, salt shakers and cream pourers as possible gifts.

In fact, Hambrook specializes in silver goods, ranging from assorted silverware and servers to sterling silver teapots from America, England and France.

Also on display at Hambrook are reproductions of famous statues made from clay and soapstone; chrystal vases and bowls, pewter steins and tankards and ship models.

Hambrook is located at 475 Washington St. in downtown Monterey. It is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and Saturday by appointment. Call 373-2101.

VISITORS to Cheppu in downtown Carmel can examine the clothing and crafts of the Himalayas without suffering altitude sickness. Owner Christine Kolish is a former resident of Nepal who still visits the region to bring rugs, jewelry, textiles and other items to her unusual shop. (Photo by Craig Lovell).

Treasures of the Himalayas discovered at Cheppu

If you would like to take a trip to the Himalayas but prefer sea level to the higher elevations, a stop at Cheppu from Himalaya will transport you there right from downtown Carmel.

The small shop offers antiqe and contemporary treasures from Nepal, Tibet, Bhutan, Burma and Sikkim. Owner Christine Kolisch has spent more than 12 years living in Nepal and collecting items to display in her store.

Cheppu is located in Pantilles Court on Dolores between Fifth and Sixth (behind Em Le's restaurant), in Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Inside the store you'll find hand-woven Tibetan rugs made with pure sheep wool and vegetable dyes, puppets and dolls, antique jewelry, bronze Tibetan singing bowls and Himalayan textiles.

One section of the store is devoted to clothing which includes designer fashions of 100 percent natural cotton.

Cozy, collectible sweaters featured at Quail and Thistle

ANYONE would cherish a gift under their tree from Quail and Thistle, one of the quality-conscious Pebble Beach shops. Quail and Thistle specializes in exclusive sweater designs, hand-crafted handbags, umbrellas and affordable costume jewelry. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/-Carmel Studio).

Known far and wide as a traditional women's store, the Quail and Thistle this year is placing more emphasis on gift items for the season.

Featuring sweaters from domestic suppliers as well as from abroad, the Quail and Thistle supplies designs that many women consider to be collectors' items because of their variety and unique design. Fine workmanship and quality materials, both wool and cotton, are featured.

This Christmas Quail and Thistle is also offering some wonderful gift items such as hand-crafted handbags, umbrellas and affordable costume jewelry — featuring one-of-a-kind necklaces.

It's worth it to stop in Quail and Thistle if only just to peruse the grounds. Housed in a former bank building, the shop features a beautiful bay window and a warm decor created with antiques and baskets.

Quail and Thistle is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday. The store is located at the Pebble Beach Lodge.

Factory outlets make shopping easy at American Tin Cannery

The excitement and savings of factory outlet shopping — buying designer fashions and name-brand merchandise direct from the manufacturers' own outlet stores — has arrives at Pacific Grove's American Tin Cannery ... just in time for the holidays.

The popular shopping center located just off Cannery Row is undergoing staged renovations which will result in a 45-store, 150,000-square-foot complex featuring nationally known outlets, shops and restaurants.

Van Heusen and Corning factory outlet stores are the first of the new tenants to open. Both outlets feature first-quality merchandise shipped direct from the manufacturer, affording customers savings of up to 70 percent off regular retail prices. Additional outlet stores are also scheduled to open before Christmas.

More than 15 shops and restaurants remain open for business during renovation. These include American Bunz, The Back Shop, Cloris' Croissants, Dynasty Imports, First Watch, Forerunner Sports, Hongs Beauty Salon, Inaka Japanese Restaurant, KOCN Radio, La Provence, Leni Interiors and Antiques, Mr. Z's Gem Lab, Mr. Z's Jeweler, Royal House and Tavern on the Bay. Come Fly a Kite and The Yogurt Plaza will reopen in December.

The carefully blended mix of new outlets, specialty shops and restaurants will guarantee American Tin Cannery customers a diverse and exciting shopping experience.

Located at 125 Ocean View Boulevard, the American Tin Cannery is just around the corner from the Monterey Bay Aquarium.

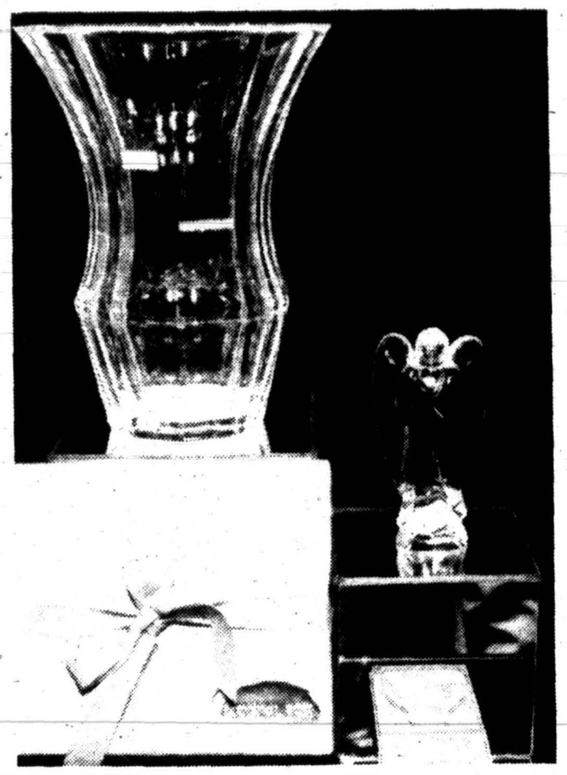
Crystal at its finest showcased at the Crystal Fox in Carmel



THE CRYSTAL FOX on San Carlos Street north of Sixth in Carmel is the Carmel source for such top lines as Waterford, Baccarat, Kosta Boda and Swarovski. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

When the occasion calls for crystal — which often happens during the holiday season — call on the Crystal Fox, located on San Carlos Street north of Sixth Avenue in downtown Carmel.

Here you'll find the peninsula's largest assortment of crystal housed under one roof. In fact, that's all owners Dean and Anne Vittetoe stock.

Perhaps this Christmas finds you in search of that special design for your home — the Crystal Fox has it all. There's everything from stemware to vases and bowls to decorative pieces from such makers as Baccarat, Waterford, Orrefors, Kosta Boda, Swarovski, Rogaska and many others.

The beauty and warmth of crystal makes it a popular choice for Christmas gifts. Some good ideas include: a Menorah, crystal decanters imported from Yugoslavia and crystal animals from Swarovski.

Visit the Crystal Fox from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

ART GALLERIES

Ocean & San Carlos, Carmel, CA 93921 • (408) 625-3111

LIQUIDATION of the entire inventory is now underway at the Lester Kierstead Henderson Gallery in New Monterey. Located at 712 Hawthorne St., the gallery is home to oils, watercolors, acrylics, sculpture and bronze works by nationally known artists. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

Liquidation sale in effect at Lester K. Henderson Gallery

For a quarter century photographer Lester Kierstead Henderson used his small Pacific Grove studio for photo finishing — often he would take his extensive art collection on the road when he photographed clients. That event was called "Art Gallery on Wings."

Upon his death in 1985, however, his wife inherited the works and attempted to spark interest by opening the Hawthorne Street location as an art gallery. With that area being mostly residential and off the beaten path, the business never really took off.

Now, Sydney Henderson has decided to liquidate the entire collection by cutting prices drastically on all works by 40 percent to 50 percent.

Through the end of the year the collection will be on sale. It consists primarily of works by nationally known artists — oils, watercolors, acrylics, sculpture and bronzes pieces.

The gallery, located at 712 Hawthorne St. (south of Lighthouse) in Monterey, is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. During the sale, special hours will include noon to 5 p.m. Nov. 28-29 and Dec. 12-13.

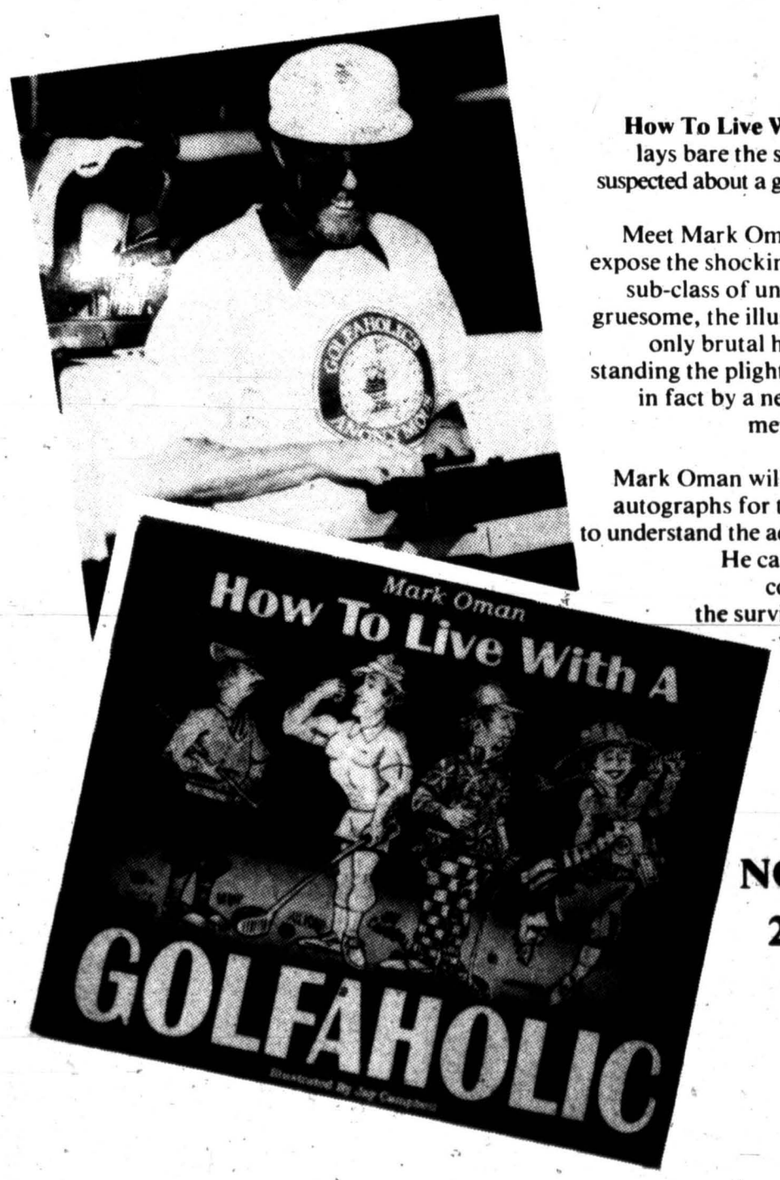
The Truth
Doctors Won't Tell You About Golf



How To Live With A Golfaholic bravely lays bare the shocking truth you always suspected about a golf lover's lust for the links.

Meet Mark Oman, the man who dares to expose the shocking depravity of this pitiful sub-class of unfortunates. The writing is gruesome, the illustrations are graphic, but only brutal honesty will help in understanding the plight of the afflicted who may in fact by a neighbor, a friend or even a member of your own family.

Mark Oman will be dispensing advice and autographs for those of you with the need to understand the addiction of the Golfaholic. He can't promise a cure — only compassion, sympathy and the survival handbook for dealing with this dread affliction "How to Live With a Golfaholic."

Toys for young and old showcased at For Car Buffs

TOYS FOR grownups are the specialty of For Car Buffs, the motor boutique housed in the Crossroads and on San Carlos Street in Carmel. Custom sun glasses, car badges, T-shirts and books focusing on a multitude of makes and models are all available here. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

Christmas shopping for the person who seems to have everything can be trying at best. But after stopping in For Car Buffs, you'll wonder why shopping for that special person suddenly seems so effortless.

With locations at The Crossroads as well as the mall in downtown Carmel on San Carlos Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues, For Car Buffs specializes in gifts and accessories for car owners — especially European imports.

"Our main thrust is in a good book selection," boasts owner Rocky Harter. "We probably have the best on the peninsula."

For Car Buffs is simply chock-full of unique gifts for the car enthusiast.

Whether it's car-care products such as wax and polish or classy T-shirts and clothing, you'll find it at For Car Buffs.

For Car Buffs also offers a complete selection of auto-related videos, which are available for purchase or to rent.

For Car Buffs is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

Crossroads means Christmas

Leave behind the hustle and bustle of malls and make Christmas shopping a memorable experience with a visit to The Crossroads, located off Highway 1 at Rio Road in Carmel.

Stroll arm and arm down lamplit sidewalks, amid fragrant flowers and trees and twinkling Christmas lights, listening closely for the chiming of the Westminster clock.

Nestled in this warm atmosphere of a charming mountain village, you'll find more than 90 shops filled with the best and brightest new clothes , specialty items, handmade crafts and treasures from the past.

NO LIVING creature has suffered when the gift you give is from the Nature Company on Ocean Avenue in Carmel. Bring a bit of nature home with the help of bird-feeders, videos, weather instruments, wildlife prints and many other gift-worthy items from the Nature Company. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

The Nature Company inspires appreciation of earth's gifts

If it has anything to do with nature, chances are you'll find it at the Nature Company, a unique store located on Ocean Avenue at Mission Street in downtown Carmel.

What makes Nature Company stand alone is its basic philosophy concerning living creatures.

"The Nature Company is dedicated to encouraging people to observe, understand and appreciate the natural world," says store spokesperson Barrie Kerper. "No items are sold which result from the killing of an animal or plant."

A partial list of interesting items to be found at Nature Company include: sculptures, wildlife prints, an extensive book section for both children and adults, videos, weather instruments, bird-feeders, calendars and T-shirts.

Last-minute gifts not in stock at the Carmel location can be ordered from the mail-order catalog as late as 12:30 p.m. Dec. 23 and still arrive in time for Christmas. The toll free number is 1-800-227-1114.

Acorn Hardware offers practical and inspired gifts

There's nothing wrong with getting the man of the house something practical for Christmas — the gift-giver might even benefit in the long run.

If leaning in that direction, give Acorn Hardware in Carmel Valley a try. You'll be guaranteed personalized service, says co-owner Paul Kruger.

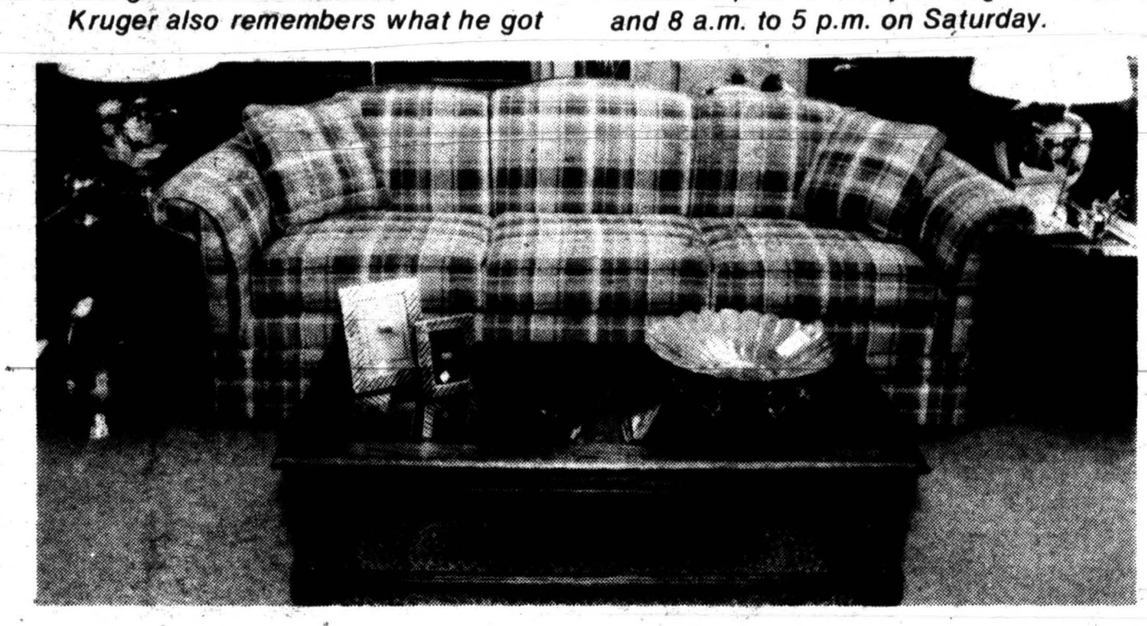
Kruger adds that he knows what questions to ask a befuddled spouse who wants to purchase something for working around the house.

Kruger also remembers what he got his dad for a Christmas gift when he was young.

The result, after shopping at Acorn, is a gift that will not only be remebered for years to come, but will also serve a practical purpose.

Carrying many major brands, Kruger suggests the following items as potential gifts: a cordless drill, socket sets, a lunchbox for work, heavy-duty flashlight, levels or a Swiss Army knife, to name a few.

Acorn Hardware is open from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday.



Salinas Oak and Brass means tradition

DAVE KLARICH, owner of Salinas Oak and Brass, buys all American-made products, many of them reproduction antiques. In the showroom you wil find everything from the traditional country-style sofa to armoires, hutches, bedroom and dinette sets, roll top desks, file cabinets, lambs and brass accessories. The store, located at 517 S. Main St. in Salinas, is open 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/-Carmel Studio).

TOP CALIBRE leather goods are the hallmark of Stefan Mann on Dolores between Fifth and Sixth, Carmel. Among the gift-ables are exotic reptile small leather goods, luggage sets or attache cases priced from $150 to $1,200. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

Luxurious leather goods, luggage shown at Stefan Mann

It's worth a trip into Stefan Mann just to take a whiff of the fine leather offered in the downtown Carmel store.

But once inside, you'll more than likely want to do more than smell the goods after eyeing the exotic-skin handbags, luggage and finest-quality personal leathergoods.

Only the finest names make it into Stefan Mann. For luggage you'll enjoy Andiamo, Bill Bayley, Hartmann, French Luggage, Gold Pfeil and Fulton.

Or how about attache cases? At Stefan Mann prices range from $150 to $1,200, with labels such as National and Zero Halliburton.

That's not to say custom work can't be done. Indeed, any item that can be dreamed up, Stefan Mann will bring to life.

"We can do pretty much anything," explains manager Victoria Macy.

The hats are made by famous names such as Borsalino, Habig and Mayser.

Stefan Mann is open from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and is will also set up appointments for Sunday. It is located on Dolores Street between Fifth and Sixth in Carmel.

Monique Vendetti's custom designs have Carmel showcase

Sometimes it's difficult to top last year's Christmas gift — the one that went over so fantastically well with the lady in your life. But here's a tip, if you really want to impress her — try shopping into Vendetti.

Located on Lincoln Street south of Ocean Avenue in Carmel, Vendetti offers custom-made, multi-colored, hand-knit coats that create a one-of-a-kind fashion design.

After viewing the 30 elegant styles within the showroom, buying a gift certificate is the next logical step.

Then you can let that special woman come in and play.

She'll sit down with designer Monique to come up with her own styling — choosing the exact colors she wants, while catering to her own tastes. All the time she'll receive expert input from Monique, a leader in the fashion industry.

The coats are composed of hair that is combed off the animal instead of cut off after the animal is killed. Vendetti uses alpaca, mohair, angora and cashmere instead of mink or rabbit skins.

"It's more than buying a fashion garment that everyone has," says owner Lucien Le Comte. "It's something special."

Also for the holiday season, Vendetti has a wide selection of chic evening dresses, replete with pearls and beads and such labels as Nagano, Flora Kung and Adam Bell.

Vendetti also carries fine leathers by Vakko and Bettina, handbags by Marco Tadini and Carol Van Wick, plus an attractive selection of costume jewelery by Yves St. Laurent and Nina Ricci.

Vendetti is open daily from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.

MEET THE winter rains and holiday parties in style with custom clothing from Vendetti. This shop on Lincoln Street in Carmel features exclusive designs by Monique Vendetti, as well as fine leathers and costume jewelry. (Photo by Gregg Wutke/Carmel Studio).

European delicacies from Del Monte Pastry herald Christmas

Whether for gifts or entertaining, European Christmas cakes, breads and pastries from Del Monte Pastry are a special treat.

Holidays are always a spirited event at this top-quality bake shop, but at Christmas owners Hans Fruhmann and Fritz Naef, both European-trained pastry chefs, outdo themselves. They fill their shop with a wide variety of festive and taste-tempting creations, as well as imported chocolates from Austria, Germany and Switzerland.

There's European Stollen, cinnamon pretzels, Scottish scones, Napolean whipped cream cake, Black Forest tortes, holdiay coffee rings decorated with candied fruit and nuts, nut and poppy seed struedel, as well as a coffee cake shaped like a Christmas tree (a perfect idea for breakfast on Christmas morning).

Date-nut bread and the store's specialty, Old Country Dark Bread, make nice hostess gifts. Cheesecakes, made to serve eight or 14, are another good idea. They come with a choice of toppings and are reasonably priced at $6.75 and $13.50.

Gorgeous and tasty centerpiece ideas include decorated gingerbread houses and Christmas Yule Logs — a cake topped with buttercream icing and filled with tempting chocolate, mocha, or chocolate-pistachio.

Remember, Del Monte Pastry can produce any of its mouth-watering pastries en masse for parties and special celebrations.

This season treat yourself and your loved ones to pastries from Del Monte Pastry. Phone 375-4222.

ALMOST EVERY country has a favorite sweet bread traditionally served during the holiday. German people bake fruit and nut-laden breads called stollen, which pastry chefs Hans Fruhman and Fritz Naef prepare at their Del Monte Pastry shop, located next to Lucky's near Del Monte Shopping Center. They also offer other holiday treats such as streudel, holiday coffee rings, Black Forest tortes, Scottish scones, Napolean whip cream cake and cinnammon pretzels. They also offer homestyle pies and can whip up a batch of festive pastries for large parties or gatherings.*

Custom services and supplies kept in focus at Bay Photo Lab

Many times quality is sacrificed in the name of speed — not at Bay Photo Lab. When you take your precious Christmas pictures in for development, you can put your mind to rest.

Offering both machine-produced and hand-finished printing techniques, Bay Photo is the measure of excellence.

"Most of our prints are handmade," says co-owner Nancy Edgerly. "That's so we can selectively lighten and darken areas.

At Bay Photo Lab, located at 680 Lighthouse Ave. in New Monterey, both color and black and white processing is offered.

And here's the best part: for slides and film smaller than 35mm next day service is the norm. Enlargements may take a short while longer, but Bay Photo will often make arrangements for next-day service.

Custom color enlargements are a specialty at Bay Photo Lab with Type R prints from slides up to size 20x30 inches, Cibrachrome prints from slides up to size 20x24 inches, and type C prints from negative up to size 30x40 inches.

The novice photographer would do well to stop into Bay Photo Lab before beginning the day's shooting.

Each picture is different and needs to be treated as such. These varying specifications include the speed of the film and the setting of the shutter speed.

Once your print or enlargement is completed, Bay Photo Lab also has a large selection of frames and matting to add the finishing touches to a Christmas memory.

Bay Photo Lab is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday.

High style at the Polo/Ralph Lauren Shop
